Askew against gay rights

Tallahassee, Fla. (UPI) — Florida Gov. Reubin Askew, saying he would not want "a known homosexual teaching my children," urged repeal Friday of a Dade County (Miami) ordinance guaranteeing equal job opportunities, particularly teaching jobs, to gays.

Askew also told a press conference he has no known homosexuals on his executive staff and would not accept any.

The governor's remarks constituted endorsement of Miami Beach songstress Anita Bryant's efforts to have the three-month-old Dade ordinance repealed.

Soviets protest broadcasts

Moscow (AP) — The Soviet Union protested to the United States Friday that broadcasts to Communist countries by Radio Liberty and Radio Free Europe "constitute a continued provocation."

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the protest was read to embassy political counsellor William Brown at the Soviet Foreign Ministry, and that "the assertions . . . were categorically rejected on the spot."

Oil still gushing

Stavanger, Norway (UPI) — Texas oil troubleshooter Paul "Red" Adair Friday went to see firsthand the gushing blowout which has spurted a slick larger than Delaware over the North Sea and confidently predicted, "We'll fix it." But his first attempt failed.

Band gives hot concert

Iowa City, Iowa (AP) — The 10,000 fans at a Doobie Brothers concert got a bit more excitement than they expected. The rock group set the stage on fire.

The concert at the University of Iowa Fieldhouse featured a fireworks display. But when the sparklers went out, the curtains went up — in smoke.

There were no injuries, and fire extinguishers were used to douse the flames.

The band played on.

Nomination withdrawn

(c) New York Times

Washington — President Carter has decided to withdraw the nomination of George S. Vest as the next ambassador to Pakistan — a move State Department officials insisted was unrelated to an American protest over charges by Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto that the United States was plotting his overthrow.

May they rest in peace

Los Angeles (UPI) — The county board of supervisors refused to order flags shown at half staff in honor of dead animals.

Rebels repel assault

Kinshasa, Zaire (AP) — Diplomatic sources reported Friday that rebel forces pushed back a government assault on the important rebel-held village of Kapanga in northern Shaba.

Tangles face prisoner treaty

(c) New York Times

Washington — Potential constitutional difficulties with a 5-month-old treaty that provides for an exchange of prisoners between the United States and Mexico are threatening to delay further its ratification by the Senate and to cause a massive legal tangle in U.S. courts if the treaty ever takes effect.

Justice Department lawyers, who have toiled since late last year to draft legislation needed to implement the treaty's provisions, now say they believe they have resolved the thorniest of the questions raised by the pact, which would deny returning Americans a chance to challenge the legality of their Mexican convictions in the U.S. courts.

But the department's legal draftsmanship will still have to be approved by the House and Senate Judiciary Committees, and some civil rights lawyers believe that further modification of the treaty itself may be required by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee before it becomes law.

One Justice Department official said the Draft legislation needed only to be approved by Atty. Gen. Griffin B. Bell before being sent to Congress, where it should arrive within a few days. But a Senate aide retorted that the department had been promising speedy delivery of the legislation "since last January."

The legislative process, which is likely to include extensive hearings by at least three committees of Congress, promises to be long and complicated and seems certain to increase the anxiety and frustrations of the 600 or so Americans now languishing in Mexico's jails.

The treaty, the first of its sort ever struck between the United States and Mexico, was signed by representatives of the two countries last Thanksgiving and ratified by Mexico a few days later. In February, President Carter, who has expressed concern over human rights violations by other countries of the kind that some of the imprisoned Americans say they have suffered at the hands of Mexican authorities, called for Senate ratification.

But Senate aides say hearings by the Foreign Relations Committee on the ratification issue alone probably cannot be held before June at the earliest.

Last week, some of the Americans confined in Mexico, most of them young men and women convicted of narcotics charges, announced in an open letter to Carter that they would begin May 10 to demonstrate their "frustration" over Senate inaction.

Although the treaty calls for Americans who are returned to the United States to finish serving their sentences in federal prisons, those who have served more than a third of the allotted time will be eligible under federal guidelines for parole.

In interviews with reporters and in letters sent to friends and families in the United States, many of the American prisoners have alleged that they were arrested and searched in Mexico in a manner that would have violated American constitutional standards, or that they were tortured or otherwise coerced by the Mexican police.

The principal question, according to Joel Gora, the acting legal director for the American Civil Liberties Union, is whether "someone can be confined in an American prison, having gotten there through methods that violate the American Constitution."

Volunteer shares friendship

Youth In Action

By Patty Beutler
Star Staff Writer

Sometimes you have to remind Donna Stuver that she's a volunteer.

Sharing her surplus of happiness and good feelings with others less fortunate comes naturally to the Lincoln High School senior.

Her exhuberance and her concern haven't gone unnoticed. This week she was named high school "volunteer of the year" by the Volunteer Bureau of Lincoln.

Donna is currently a citizen advocate for the Capital Association for Retarded Citizens. Her protege is a severely retarded girl who has physical disabilities and no speech.

Donna first met her protege, Sandy, through the Respite Care Program, where volunteers look after retarded youngsters so their parents can have an evening out. After some contact with Sandy, Donna decided "it would be really neat to be an advocate for her."

Although more of a commitment, the two hours a week Donna spends with Sandy are fulfilling. "It's not really a volunteer job any more," Donna says. "It's more of a friendship."

Without words, Sandy lets her friend know how she feels. She gets a lot out of nature, Donna says. "She communicates in her own way; you know what she means."

Donna is convinced it's a relationship that works two ways. "We get out of it what we put into it."

Volunteering is important for her well-being, Donna says. "It's selfish in the long run because you're doing it for yourself, but someone else is getting something from it."

Through her volunteer work with the drug crisis line, Donna developed another friendship with a 26-year-old woman, disabled by epilepsy and without any family. Donna takes another two hours a week to provide companionship on shopping excursions or for outdoors fun, like raking leaves.

Volunteering helped Donna realize "there are people who aren't happy with their lives." She hopes to play a small part in changing that.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stuver, 5027 Grassridge, Donna is the only student representative on the State Mental Health Advisory Council. She sees her role as representing younger people who are in institutions.

Her confusion after the first council meeting was somewhat relieved when another fairly new member whispered, "I hear it takes a year and a half before you know what they're talking about."

Donna doesn't believe it takes a special kind of person to be a citizen advocate; it just takes patience. But she's bothered by the fact that people say they don't have time to take a few hours out of the week to visit someone who's lonely or afraid.

"There are weeks that I feel so bogged down," she confides. "But because a person's feelings are involved, you have to stick with it."

Gas tax boost support shaky

By Don Walton
Star Staff Writer

The Unicameral Friday gave shaky 25-6 first round approval to a bill which would increase the state gasoline tax by one cent a gallon.

But an accompanying measure which Gov. J. James Exon has indicated would be needed if he is to approve the gas tax hike was scuttled by the senators.

That proposal would have allowed the state to transfer roads to counties if they agree to accept them. They would then be paid a minimum of $500 per mile per year to assist with maintenance costs.

The gas tax proposal, LB139, would lift the current levy of 8½ cents per gallon to 9½ cents.

Although the bill states that the increase would become operative on Aug. 1, it would not actually take effect until about September. In its current form, LB139 could not be effective until three calendar months after the 1977 session adjourns.

But, first, supporters of the bill may need to find 30 votes to override a gubernatorial veto.

The extra penny tax would raise more than $10 million a year for distribution among the state, cities and counties for road and street construction and maintenance.

The funding is divided 53 1/3% to the state and 23 1/3% each to the cities and the counties.

Supporters of the tax increase argued that rising construction and maintenance costs dictate the need for additional revenue.

Those costs already have forced the state to stretch its current five-year construction program over a nine-year period, Sen. John Savage of Omaha said.

"We have no choice," Sen. Ron Cope of Kearney declared. "The longer you let it go, the more it costs."

An increase in road funds is "long overdue," Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood said.

Sen. Walter George of Blair wondered if a one cent increase would be adequate in view of rising costs.

Only about $5 million in additional revenue would be generated for the Roads Department, he noted, and that "wouldn't go very far."

Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue said he would "emphatically oppose" such an increase without additional evidence of need and some idea of how the funding would be expended.

Sen. Orval Keyes of Springfield attempted to add a proviso to the bill requiring that state and local governments acquire vehicles by 1980 which would travel at least 30 miles per gallon of fuel.

That proposal was nixed on a 14-17 count.

The road transfer plan was offered as a proposed amendment to LB236, a bill relating to classification of recreational vehicles.

But the Legislature declined on a 20-15 vote to accept that proposal. Twenty five votes were needed to change LB236 into a road transfer bill.

Opponents of the plan said the proposal would allow the state to coerce counties into accepting unpaved roads now on the state system even though they might not want to assume responsibility for them.

Supporters of the plan said the requirement for mutual agreement between the state and the county would prevent any such abuses.

The Legislature adjourned for the week with a motion pending to kill LB236.

4 council candidates want Civic Center

City Election '77

Editor's note: This is the last in a series of six stories on the City Council race. In a departure from traditional campaign coverage,

The Star decided to present the candidates with not-so-hypothetical voting situations they might encounter if elected.

Each story will feature one vote and the candidates' choices. The candidates' explanations of their votes are presented in their own words, except where the candidate exceeded the 35-word limit. The election is Tuesday.

Q — How do you intend to vote on the proposed $7 million bond issue for the Civic Center? What do you tell people who ask for your advice?

Dorothy Walker:

Yes. Consider the historical preservation aspect, the lower cost of needed office space, the potential for stimulating local business by attracting people outside of Lincoln to cultural events.

T. R. Allan:

I am going to vote yes for the prime consideration of adding new city government office space the city desperately needs. If we delay, we'll pay much more in the long run.

Sue Bailey:

To me it's an issue of stewardship and conservation. Our grandparents spent hard-earned dollars for those two buildings. It would be an insult to them to not use creatively this part of our past (vote yes).

Joe R. Hampton:

It is a desirable addition to the community. However, I will vote no, as I believe we have some other higher priorities. I am happy the people will have the opportunity to vote.

John Robinson:

Yes. I intend to vote in favor of the center. I feel Lincoln is in need of multi-cultural education.

Leo Scherer:

I am telling people to seriously consider needs and total costs which the city finance department tells me could be $12 million when the bonds eventually are retired. I have not yet decided how to vote.

Oil threatens Florida Keys

Miami (AP) — An oil slick 60 miles long drifted several miles off the white beaches of the Florida Keys on Friday while Coast Guard cutters stood by, waiting to see if it would drift toward share.

The slick was as close as two miles from some reefs but was barely moving, said Rear Adm. Robert W. Durfey, commander of the 7th Coast Guard District.

The Coast Guard's Atlantic and Gulf Coast strike teams were en route to the keys with special containment equipment, including barrier booms that could be used to contain the oil. The cutters Cape Knox and Diligence and other smaller vessels were at the scene.

"If it reaches the beaches there's always the possibility of significant damage to reefs and shores," Durfey said, adding, " . . . we would have a major problem."

However, he said the slick, which had been drifting toward shore, was now moving slightly away.

"It's too early to tell what it's going to do. We have hopes that winds and seas will carry it out."

The slick was spotted by a Coast Guard patrol plane Friday morning, drifting along the Gulf Stream from Key Largo in the northern keys to Marathon, about 50 miles from Key West, the last island in the chain.

Durfey said the oil was probably dumped by a tanker passing the keys during the night. He said it could have either been a deliberate cleaning of the tanks or an accidental spill.

Coast Guard patrol planes flew northwest toward New Orleans and northeast, up the Florida coast, collecting information on all tankers moving away from the spill.

Using a technique called "oil fingerprinting," experts can compare oil from a spill with oil from ships known to have been in the area of the spill. Dumping oil within the 12-mile limit can be a felony.

Tough coal strip mining bill passes House

Washington (AP) — The House Friday, overwhelmingly voted to pass tough legislation to control coal strip mining and to reclaim the moonscape of abandoned minelands across the country.

The vote to send the bill to the Senate was 241 to 64.

Before passage, the House defeated by a shouted voice vote a move to exempt some strip mines from several stringent standards for restoring the land after gouging out coal seams beneath the surface.

By an earlier vote of 228 to 83, the House defeated a Republican effort to send the entire package to the House's new ad hoc energy committee for further consideration. That move was attacked as a delaying tactic.

By a vote of 170 to 149 the House approved a ban on strip mining in environmentally fragile western valleys. Adoption of this administration-backed ammendment made a tough bill even tougher.

A Senate committee is nearing completion on a similar bill.

The House bill is similar to measures that were twice vetoed by former President Gerald R. Ford. President Carter has said he will sign the legislation, claiming his goal of increasing U.S. coal production by two-thirds by 1985 must be achieved without damaging the environment.

The president of the National Coal Association, Carl E. Bagge, called the House action "incomprehensible."

"The House bill is a 183-page catalogue of ways to hamper coal output," Bagge said.

Proposed by Rep. Max Baucus, D-Mont., the valley amendment would prohibit any form of strip mining on so-called Western alluvial valley floors.

These are valleys that contain running streams only part of the year, but which have underground water supplies close enough to the surface to support vegetation and farming operations.

Baucus called these valley floors "a fragile resource" but opponents of the measure said the amendment was too stringent and could reduce coal production.

Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., the chief sponsor of the legislation, said he felt the original bill passed by his House Interior Committee gave adequate protection to these valleys but said the Baucus approach was even sounder.

Before the amendment was adopted, the bill would have permitted strip mining on such valley floors only on "undeveloped rangeland" and if the mining did not interfere with farms or ranches.

Rep. Robert E. Bauman, R-Md., leading the opposition to the bill, said Western valley floors contain "rich mineral deposits" and that the Baucus amendment "is an extreme environmental position."

Baucus denied that his amendment would significantly affect U.S. coal production, but said the extra protection it offered would be extremely meaningful for Montana and Wyoming, where many of these alluvial floors are located.

The bill, which has been before Congress in one form or another for the past five years, would establish environmental standards for strip mining and create a fund for reclaiming abandoned mine excavations that scar the landscape, especially in Appalachia.

Indicators' pace gives rosy view of economy

Washington (AP) — An administration economist said Friday a strong showing by leading economic indicators, led by an increase in new orders for consumer products and materials, was an encouraging sign for the future growth of the economy.

The March index of the indicators was up 1.4 per cent, registering the highest gain in 20 months, according to figures released by the Commerce Department.

The indicators index, consisting of 12 separate economic statistics, is designed to forecast future trends for the nation's econmy.

In another development, the Agriculture Department said consumer food prices are inching up faster than expected and may average four to six per cent higher for the year than in 1976. The department had been predicting a four to five per cent hike.

The department said moderate retail price increases may be in store in coming months for meats, dairy products, vegetable oils, processed fruits and vegetables and possibly sugar products.

Meanwhile, the Labor Department said contracts negotiated over the first three months of 1977 generally resulted in smaller pay hikes than those bargained for during the same period a year ago.

The department said increases in the first year of labor contracts averaged 7.6 per cent for agreements negotiated in the first three months of 1977, compared to 8.4 per cent for the first quarter of 1976.

Increases over the life of the contracts were put at 6.5 per cent for the 1977 quarter, up from 6.4 per cent for the first quarter of 1976.

Courtenay Slater, chief economist for the Commerce Department, said that while a large part of the increase in economic indicators for March could be attributed to the economy catching up after a slowdown caused by winter weather, the figures still show encouraging signs of growth over the next couple of months.

The latest index contained figures for 10 of the 12 economic areas, with six showing gains in March over February while four were down.

Mrs. Slater said that figures for the first three months of the year show a gain from the previous quarter despite the effects of January's severe weather.

"We are looking at a first quarter in which we did very well, despite weather problems, and a month of March that did very well indeed," she said. "We think we're looking at reasonably good growth prospects for the months ahead."

The index was put at 129.7 in March, 1.4 per cent higher than the revised February index of 127.9. The base year for figuring the gains is 1967, which is assigned the value of 100.

Personalities

Sen. Griffin won't run again

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., announced Friday he will not seek reelection next year, ending a 22-year career on Capitol Hill.

Griffin, 53, a key campaign strategist for former President Gerald Ford in his unsuccessful bid for reelection last year, was barely beaten for the Senate Republican leader's job this year by Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee.

Groucho doesn't know 2 things

Groucho Marx, beset by the ills and the fuzziness of old age, doesn't know that he and his millions are being fought over in court and is unaware of his brother Gummo's death last week.

Nat Perrin, named last week as Groucho's temporary conservator, said his 86-year-old charge is embarrassed about having to be dressed, fed and constantly watched over.

Rita Hayworth vanishes

Rita Hayworth, 58, flame-haired World War II movie queen now disabled by either alcohol or a mental disorder, has vanished from her home in Orange County, Calif., and is believed to be seeking treatment at a private clinic on the East Coast.

A petition to appoint a guardian to look over her affairs was dismissed in court Friday because she is no longer in Orange County.

Fitzsimmons quits as trustee

Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons and three others formally resigned as trustees of the union's $1.4 billion Central States Pension Fund Friday under threat of legal action by the government.

Stripped-down tax bill wins 73-7 OK in Senate

Washington (AP) — The Senate approved a tax cut for 47 million couples or individuals Friday, passing a stripped-down tax bill that once was the heart of President Carter's economic stimulus program.

The measure, approved 73 to 7, includes a major simplification of tax forms, which will allow virtually all Americans to fill out their federal income taxes without worrying about mathematical errors.

Earlier Friday, the Senate approved another part of Carter's economic stimulus plan, a $4 billion public works bill designed to create jobs by funding local construction projects such as schools and bridges.

In the tax bill, the main tax cut is achieved by raising the standard deduction. This would mean an annual tax reduction averaging $121 for 47 million tax returns.

Ninety-two per cent of the benefits would go to families or individuals with income under $20,000 . However, none of the benefits would go to persons who itemize deductions.

Withholding rates would be cut June 1 to reflect the increases in the standard deduction.

Senate passage would send the bill to a conference committee to work out differences between the versions passed by the House and Senate.

Present law allows an individual who does not itemize deductions to reduce his taxable income by 16 per cent, but not less than $1,700 and not more than $2,400. For a couple filing a joint return, the standard deduction ranges from $2,100 to $2,800.

The Senate bill would allow a flat $2,200 standard deduction for single persons and $3,200 for couples and heads of household, who generally are widowed or divorced women with minor children.

The House has voted for a $2,200 standard deduction for single persons and $3,000 for couples.

New budget blueprint designed to bring Demos back together

Washington (AP) — A new budget blueprint designed to bring together Democrats divided over defense spending and avoid a tie-up of funding legislation was approved Friday by the House Budget Committee.

The committee, which initially had recommended trimming President Carter's proposed defense spending in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 by $2.3 billion, agreed on restoring $300 million.

When the committee's first version of a budget resolution came before the House Wednesday, it was amended to restore the full $2.3 billion. This led to a massive desertion by Democratic liberals who complained the measure was already weighted toward business and the military. Their votes, along with those of conservatives objecting to deficits, buried the resolution, 320 to 84.

The House is to take up the new resolution next Thursday. Unless House and Senate agree and finally adopt a plan by May 15, under the law fiscal legislation cannot be handled.

The new blueprint calls for spending $464.3 billion against revenues of $398.1 billion, for a deficit of $66.2 billion. The projected deficit is nearly $2 billion above President Carter's estimate, but $2.4 billion less than the deficit that would have been projected if the amended first resolution had been adopted.

Sugar subsidy predicted

Washington (UPI) — President Carter will soon announce a subsidy of 1 or 2 cents a pounds to the domestic sugar industry, congressional sources predicted Friday, but an administration aide said he knew of no final decision on the issue yet.

The subsidy reportedly would be paid through processors to growers in an effort to bolster farmer income without raising the market price of sugar.

In related developments, Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., appealed to Carter to withhold a decision on the subsidy, which he said could cost taxpayers $250 million a year, until Congress can hold hearings on the issue.

Robert Liebenow, president of the Corn Refiners Association, protested that a subsidy would be unfair to taxpayers and to corn refines who produce a low-cost syrup which competes with sugar.

Energy plan's net loss to taxpayer placed at $7 billion

(c) New York Times

Washington — The White House declared Friday that President Carter's energy program would wind up costing taxpayers up to $7 billion more than they get in rebates through 1985.

James R. Schlesinger, giving those figures at a White House briefing suggested that they represented a small difference. The President's proposed tax on crude oil alone, he said, would produce up to $72 billion for the Treasury before rebates.

Other energy planners said later that the $7 billion estimate of net revenue to the Treasury by 1985 was a preliminary figure and would be revised downward, perhaps substantially, by the time Schlesinger testified Tuesday before the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee.

Other energy planners said later that the $7 billion estimate of net revenue to the Treasury by 1985 was a preliminary figure and would be revised downward, perhaps substantially, by the time Schlesinger testifies Tuesday before the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee.

Schlesinger gave this estimate to reporters minutes after a Rose Garden ceremony in which Carter signed for transmittal to Congress "The National Energy Plan" and a packet of energy legislation that ran to 283 pages.

Warmed by brilliant sunshine streaming from a cloudless pale blue sky, Carter saluted with a quip Schlesinger and the two dozen men and women alongside him who have been laboring days, nights and weekends over the plan. "This is the first time they've seen the light of day in a number of weeks," the President said.

The 103-page plan followed the outline Carter gave Congress last week and contained no important deviations.

It confirmed that tax rebates on gasoline-efficient cars would be retroactive to May 1, assuming Congress enacts the proposed system of rebates and penalties on low-mileage cars. Schlesinger explained that the rebates would be retroactive so that prospective purchasers of such cars would not wait until enactment, which is unlikely before autumn.

The penalties would not be retroactive and are meant to take effect for 1978 models, due in showrooms in September. Whether Congress can complete action on the tax by then is uncertain.

Schlesinger took pains to rebut criticism from the oil and gas industry that the administration plan, in putting conservation first, gives inadequate incentives for development of oil and gas supplies.

Newly discovered oil will be eligible for the world price in 1980, Schlesinger said, after moving up in stages from the present upper-level controlled price of $11.28 a barrel. (Some domestic oil is priced at $5.25 under federal control.)

Schlesinger said the present world price, $13.50, was "a major incentive and impressive price." He said it would give producers twice the price they realize in the North Sea, which he put at $6 to $7 a barrel after a British government tax of $7.50.

Benzene exposure cut

Washington (AP) — The federal government Friday ordered sharp limits on worker exposure to benzene in some 1,200 factories after a new study linked the common industrial chemical with leukemia, a blood cancer.

The Labor Department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration said the emergency order will affect about 150,000 workers, largely in the chemical, printing, rubber, paint and petroleum industries.

The emergency order was only the sixth such rule issued by OSHA in its six-year history.

Benzene is a clear, flammable liquid, derived from oil, which is used as a solvent in the rubber industry. It is also used in the production of other chemicals and detergents, and as a component of motor fuels.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall told a news conference the emergency benzene order "signals a new day for an agency which in the past has been criticized for acting too slowly when lives were at stake."

Marshall said OSHA will focus its attention on major problems like benzene rather than on finding faulty light sockets. "We are going to catch whales rather than minnows," he vowed.

The temporary order, which will take effect May 21, reduces permissible worker exposure to one part of benzene per million parts of air averaged over an eight hour day. The current standard is 10 parts of benzene per million parts of air.

The order also reduces to five parts per million from 25 parts per million the highest permissible level of benzene allowed in the air of a workplace for any single 15 minute period during an eight-hour day.

GOP chairman attacks fuel plan

Chicago (UPI) — Republican National Chairman Bill Brock Friday accused President Carter of proposing higher gasoline taxes as a "backdoor" means of financing $60 billion in new social programs.

Brock launched the strongest Republican attack to date on the Carter energy program — saying the President had "received too much bad advice from advisers who are neither sensitive nor sensible about the real needs of the American people."

The GOP chairman centered his attack on Carter's tax proposals in a speech to the Republican National Committee, which held its first meeting outside Washington in more than a decade.

Departing from a traditional Republican position, he also criticized the Carter program because it did not include "vigorous support for mass transit."

Brock said the program was an "attempt by the government to deny people their family cars."

200 tons of uranium possibly went to Israel

Salzburg, Austria (AP) — A U.S. expert on the spread of nuclear weapons said Friday that he has learned from "highly authoritative sources" that 200 tons of natural uranium which disappeared at sea nine years ago may have ended up in Israel.

Israel denied any connection with the incident.

Paul L. Leventhal, former counsel to the U.S. Senate Government Operations Committee, mentioned the case at a nuclear conference and said later he did so to show up the inadequacy of safeguards for nuclear materials.

Leventhal told the conference of nuclear power critics from 20 countries that the 200 tons of uranium disappeared from a ship enroute from Belgium to Italy in 1968.

The ship disappeared, he said, and "a few weeks later, it reappeared with a new name, new registry, a new crew, but no uranium."

"It is assumed that it was unloaded in Israel," Leventhal added.

Bill would loosen NU spending

United Press International

Three appropriations bills were introduced in the Legislature late Friday, including a measure that would permit the University of Nebraska to make certain expenditures above its proposed cash fund ceilings.

The measure relating to the university's ceilings, LB543, explains the legislative intent of LB533, which appropriates funds to higher education.

The legislative intent bill says the university's Lincoln and Medical Center campuses could exceed their proposed cash ceilings in LB533 by up to $500,000. The expenditure would be allowed only for overhead costs and only if excess funds were available. UNO would be able to exceed its proposed cash ceiling by $200,000, providing the funds were available for overhead costs.

In addition, the intent bill says federal capitation funds for pharmacy, if they become available and exceed $75,999, would be used to offset the university's general fund appropriation.

Also introduced Friday was LB544, a bill to create a Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education cash fund. The bill provides for supplying the fund with money appropriated by the Legislative Council for the purpose of contracting with the Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education.

The fund would be used for such things as developing a plan for a postsecondary education uniform data system and studying student attrition.

The third measure introduced Friday, LB545, provides for increasing the amount the state contributes to health insurance plans. Under the bill, the monthly state input would increase from $13.59 to $15.20 for single coverage; from $35.19 to $39.31 for two and four party coverage; and from $52.08 to $56.25 for family coverage.

Bills introduced Friday in the Nebraska Unicameral:

LB543 -- Establishes legislative intent for expenditure of some higher education funds. Appropriations Committee.

LB544 -- Creates a cash fund for the Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education. Appropriations Committee.

LB545 -- Increases state contribution to health insurance plans. Appropriations Committee.

Unicam intent on education harmony

Associated Press

The Legislature intends to bring the state's institutions of higher education together, according to Education Committee Chairman Frank Lewis of Bellevue, and reluctant schools had better get used to the idea.

"We intend to move forward in some very specific ways with or without the institutions' cooperation," Lewis told the Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education.

"They may come in harmony, or they may come kicking and screaming," Lewis said.

The Legislature recently passed a bill, LB459, that established a special legislative committee to review the goals and missions of the state colleges, the University of Nebraska and the technical community colleges. Lewis and Appropriations Committee Chairman Jerome Warner of Waverly will co-chair the committee.

Lewis criticized lobbying groups, including agricultural organizations, that he said try to get more education funds through the back door instead of looking at educational priorities as a whole.

He suggested that some competing schools have gone into adult and continuing education to obtain funds, not because of real needs.

"Seeing how many dollars you can generate is probably the No. 1 priority of education," said Lewis, who was a teacher at North Platte and Bellevue before election to the Unicameral.

The primary goal of two-year colleges, he said, was to be in job training, and academic courses were not part of the intent when the Legislature created the system.

Appropriation wins approval

A deficiency appropriation bill with a $1.5 million general fund impact won 29-0 first-round Unicameral approval Friday.

The Appropriations Committee bill to cover shortages for the rest of the current fiscal year, LB522, includes $1.9 million for special education.

Airport at G.I. faces challenge

Hastings (AP) — The Hastings Airport Authority said Thursday it will pursue its case before the Civil Aeronautics Board against Grand Island's designation as a regional airport.

The board said a proposal made last week by Grand Island at a meeting of the Southern Route Commission was inadequate as far as Hastings was concerned.

The proposal would have had the Hastings airport maintain its identity, delay the central Nebraska consolidation and have Frontier Airlines suspend service at Hastings, Kearney and McCook after another commuter service was brought in.

Low tires linked to self-service

Omaha (UPI) — The Cornhusker Motor Club said Friday the advent of self-service gasoline stations has "undoubtedly had a great impact on the huge proportion of under-inflated tires" on motor vehicles.

"Since the majority of motorists are filling their gas tanks," said George Smith, club spokesman, "few are taking the time to check tire air pressures."

Smith commented following a sample testing of 400 tires by a Cornhusker Motor Club team at the Vickers Manufacturing Co. plant in Omaha Friday.

Smith said of the 100 cars checked, only one had all four tires inflated at the recommended pressure. He said the average underinflation was 5.8 pounds while a tire on one car checked was 24 pounds under the recommended pressure.

Since the average car uses 1,000 gallons of gasoline a year, Smith said tire underinflation could cause a loss of 65 gallons of gas or $40 in cash through decreased mileage.

"Another problem for car owners is that radial tires have a bulging sidewall as a built-in characteristic," Smith said. "However, the bulge can be misleading and actually be covering up a serious case of underinflation."

Smith said 43% of the 100 cars checked Friday had radial tires.

Smith said the club recommends that motorists check tire pressures at least once monthly.

"If they don't want to do it at the service station, they should pick up a tire tester at any automotive store and do it at home," Smith said. "Tire testers usually cost less than $2."

Hog isolation stressed

An intensified surveillance and enforcement of mandatory quarantines on swine was announced Friday by State Ag Director Glenn Kreuscher.

Kreuscher said the concern over pseudorabies, a disease carried by swine, has prompted special attention to the isolation requirements of swine quarantines.

State regulations provide that feeding and breeding swine brought to a farm from another state must be quarantined in isolation from other swine for at least 30 days. Swine released from markets to go to farms must also be quarantined for a 30 day period, Kreuscher said.

"In all areas where swine quarantines are issued, strict adherence will be enforced on isolation requirements. Our livestock inspectors will be requested to make spot checks where quarantines are in effect," he said.

No-fault divorce claims nixed

A federal judge has refused to strike down Nebraska's no-fault divorce law.

U.S. District Judge Warren K. Urbom dismissed a petition Friday by Cleone Bucholz, a Lincoln woman who contended the divorce law discriminated against older women and violated the U.S. Constitution's provisions of equal protection.

Urbom said his court lacked jurisdiction in the matter.

Mrs. Bucholz was divorced from her husband Mark in 1975 in Lancaster County District Court. On Dec. 22, 1976 the state Supreme Court upheld the lower court's decision.

Urbom ruled that the claims which Mrs. Bucholz presented were the same ones that the state Supreme Court had rejected.

A federal district court should not serve as an appeals court to a state Supreme Court except in cases of habeas corpus, where a person is jailed in violation of his Constitutional rights, he said.

Exon praises Unicam for following Appropriations Committee's lead

By Ed Howard
Associated Press

Gov. J. James Exon said Friday that if state senators continue to follow the current recommendations of the Legislature's Appropriations Committee "it appears they will not force a raise in the sales and income taxes."

Exon praised the budget panel during an interview and said he was optimistic about the state's revenue picture.

"It appears as of now that the Legislature has so far accepted the recommendations of the committee, based on my recommendations," he said.

"However, unless the legislators are able to restrain themselves on other measures presently before them, specifically LB33 and some others, then they are going to mandate an increase in the sales and income tax rates," Exon said.

LB33 is a state aid to schools bill that would increase aid by $20 million.

He said April revenue receipts had exceeded expectations. "The Revenue Department had estimated April at about $53 million, and it appears that when the final figures are in during the first week of next month, we will exceed that amount by $6 million or more."

Exon was quick to add that the state still faces a revenue shortfall since the higher-than-expected revenues serve only to offset some of the $11 million March shortfall.

At the first of April the state was short $28 million in projected revenues and that would be reduced to some $22 million with the April revenues.

Exon emphasized that the shortfall involved only projected revenues and not cash flow for the current fiscal year.

The state has been meeting its obligations on time and without shifting money from various funds, he said.

"It has been nip and tuck, but the money has been there," Exon said.

Despite that, Exon said that while no final determination has been made, "it would appear that our original $513 million projection of revenues for the next fiscal year will remain the official amount of anticipated receipts; although it could be slightly lower, it should not be significantly lower."

It is the projected revenues for the next fiscal year on which the current legislature bases the appropriations now being made. Of the $513 million, Exon has said that $470.5 million can be appropriated, with the remainder going to existing obligations.

"We must have extreme caution in spending, but overall I am pleased with the actions of the Appropriations Committee.

"It appears at this time if the Legislature goes along with the recommendations of the governor, that have been accepted by the committee, they will not force a raise in sales and income taxes," Exon said.

Patrol benefits for retirement get first nod

United Press International

A bill providing for improved retirement benefits for members of the State Patrol received 25-4 preliminary approval in the Legislature Friday.

The measure, LB347 would:

— Give a one time cost-of-living adjustment for retired patrolmen or their beneficiaries.

— Calculate retirement benefits on the basis of the last three, instead of the last five, years of employment.

— Allow retirement after 30 years of service, even if a patrolman had not reached the age of 55.

— Provide improved benefits for a widow and-or dependent children or a patrolman who is killed or dies before reaching retirement age.

There's trouble ahead if the 'bickering' stops

The phoniest issue being raised in the Lincoln City Council election campaign is that of "bickering" among council members and between the council and the mayor.

The "bickering" has allegedly impeded government in the effort to solve the city's problems. In reality, that claim is a bunch of nonsense.

Lincoln is a community in which, fortunately, class and economic distinctions are somewhat blurred. In many respects it is a fairly homogeneous community. On the other hand, the city does not rest on a monolithic economic or social base. There are competing interests, values and opinions. Differences are inevitable.

The natural state of government and political affairs is for disagreement to surface and for competing philosophies to clash in an open forum. Less often do we find — and then usually in totalitarian societies — a government in which all the components agree to work their will on the populace without debate or resistance. Some societies know how to get rid of bickering, but ours is not one of them, happily.

"Bickering" thus is a code word for disagreement, which is an entirely natural political phenomenon.

What has Lincoln wanted that "bickering" has withheld?

What services are we denied because local government has followed the normal democratic course?

Even the most politically unsophisticated people can understand that the election of one or another council member will not stop the "bickering" and that stopping the "bickering" would be unwanted tampering with the democratic process.

The issue has been misstated.

The real issue, if we can probe through the smokescreen, is in electing one faction or another of councilmen who can win the bickering. That's what it is all about.

People who would believe that the bickering will stop also probably would believe that politicians never have conflicts of interest.

But phony issues are part of politics. This one reminds us of two years ago, when some of the people talking about "bickering" brought folks from Madison, Wisconsin and Boulder, Colorado here to tell Lincolnites how to run their city.

That kind of politics didn't work then, and it would be a pity if it worked now.

Comparisons are risky

The temptation to compare Jimmy Carter with Franklin D. Roosevelt, Carter's hero, should be stoutly resisted, especially if the comparison centers on the accomplishments of each during the magical 100 days after inauguration.

A generation separates the two and the challenges and world conditions have changed. It is sufficient to say that Carter probably would have closed the banks in 1933 and that FDR, were he alive today, would have tilted that massive head back and urged Americans to declare "wah" on energy waste.

For a variety of reasons, expertly detailed by Hedrick Smith in another column on this page today, Carter has not taken firm command in the legislative arena.

His at the outset was a political problem FDR didn't face. Carter's problem since the day he was elected by a very narrow margin was to get the public to know him and to like him and to trust him.

That is what he has concentrated on since November, and especially since January 20, while trying to handle the substantive chores associated with his job.

In the first 100 days, he has done a pretty good job of both; in fact, his political effort has been little short of spectacular. He has managed to alienate almost every important political institution while not only retaining but building upon the good will of the people.

And at the risk of losing political popularity in the future, he has tackled the energy problem now.

That's not all he's done while in office these last three-plus months, but it reflects a beginning that should compare favorably by any standard if comparisons are important.

The 100-day lap

By Hedrick Smith
New York Times Writer

Washington — The most striking accomplishment of the first 100 days of Jimmy Carter's presidency has been for this soft-spoken, little known, one-term governor of Georgia to successfully establish himself with the American people as their national leader.

But if his informal, unconventional presidential style and his low-key television image have won him wide rapport among the public, his most significant failure so far has been his inability to forge an easy and effective working relationship with a Congress heavily dominated by his own party.

Carter has gotten some pieces of legislation through Congress. Yet, not only has he fallen well short of the legislative blitz achieved by Franklin D. Roosevelt during the first 100 days of the New Deal, but he has also been unable to live up to his own campaign commitments to "to work together, for a change" and to remove the obstacles between Congress and the White House that deadlocked government during the Republican administration.

In part this is because of the challenges that he has thrown at Capitol Hill in what has seemed an effort to demonstrate that he is in charge. In part, it is because this city of politicians and bureaucrats is still trying to puzzle him out.

For paradoxically, although Carter has won respect as an aggressively activist new president, he has not yet projected a clear vision of the American future. He has pushed out policy initiatives on domestic issues from energy to food stamps, reached out for new relations with Cuba and Vietnam, pushed beyond arms control toward arms reduction with Moscow, and put pressure on American allies to join his radical new campaign to curb nuclear proliferation.

But he has seemed more like a problem-solving engineer intent on making both government and society work better rather than a social reformer articulating a philosophy of social justice or coming down hard early in his term on a cluster of programs that would give his administration a clear-cut political definition.

As president, Carter has disappointed the liberal-labor coalition of the Democratic Party by the conservatism of his economic policies — his modest boost for the minimum wage, the cutback of his stimulus package to less than what President Ford had recommended, his abiding concern with inflation and a balance budget.

He has baffled some of those who took literally his campaign promises to reduce government intervention and to simplify the tax system by putting forward an energy program that increases intervention and adds new complications. He has mystified others by switching so quickly from doomsday predictions of an energy shortage that would require the moral equivalent of war to promises 48 hours later that his energy proposals would actually lead to a better life. Outside economists are puzzled how he can insist that an energy conservation program that is based on raising fuel prices will not have an inflationary impact.

For an organizational-managerial president, his administration has been curiously untidy at times — appointments made late, scores of personnel files lost, energy legislation going to Capitol Hill a week after his own public appeals generated momentum for his program, the White House staff growing rather than shrinking as he had promised.

But he has won respect for his willingness to take a bold, fresh look at impacted problems and he has confounded those who predicted he would be a stubborn, unyielding, single-minded man of principle, by being willing to compromise or beat a political retreat when realism dictated it.

Moreover, his ideological ambivalence seems to suit the public mood. For in the White House, Carter has found an uncanny knack of tapping popular good will and making the presidency seem more accessible to the public than even to some of his own officials. Theoretically, he has re-established cabinet government, but he has so dominated the Washington scene that no one rivals him for attention and the public seems to accept his leadership.

Assiduously, relentlessly, shrewdly he courted a wider constituency with populist gestures and symbolic trimming of the White House frills. Now, he has the kind of 3-1 approval rating in the opinion polls that Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson enjoyed at this early stage of their presidencies.

The challenge for Carter is to cash in this obvious political capital with Congress, whose leaders so effusively embraced him in Georgia last fall after his election victory.

But surprisingly quickly, the relationship soured. Capitol Hill got the impression that the President did not hold the legislative body in high regard. Members felt spurned by his aides and were bruised when, without consultation, he suddenly announced plans to cancel 19 and then 30 of the pet water projects of senior senators and representatives. That issue became a battle of protocol and prerogatives and has affected other White House dealings with Congress.

The measure of Carter's difficulties was his failure to obtain passage for the $50 tax rebate proposal that he repeatedly described as an essential and integral element of his economic stimulus package. Ultimately, claiming it was no longer needed, he retreated rather than risk defeat. But he could have obtained its passage if he and his Georgia irregulars had mounted a more effective campaign with Congress.

Actually, he may have gained some political credit for having the tactical wisdom to withdraw. But in some quarters his credibility was hurt and legislators are even now picking over his energy package to find the weak spot on which he will withdraw. Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the Budget Committee chairman, has called his action on the rebate "a crisis of competence."

Actually, Carter has begun to change his style and privately to mend some fences on Capitol Hill. He has demonstrated a sense of momentum with his early proposals and more are coming, though at a slower pace than the Carter entourage once thought, and even in his compromises, he has achieved some successes.

But he has yet to prove that he is a legislative leader as well as a national leader.

Mr. Carter goes to Europe

James Reston

Washington — Jimmy Carter is going to Europe next week for the first time as president, and he is preparing the way carefully in recognition of the fact that Europe usually takes a highly skeptical view of new American presidents.

Accordingly, he has given a personal interview to the correspondents of The Times of London, Le Monde of Paris, Die Welt of West Germany and La Stampa of Italy. On Monday next, he will be interviewed at the White House by David Dimbleby of the BBC and reporters from the other major Western European television organizations, and this will be shown on the Eurovision network the night before he arrives in London for the economic summit meeting at No. 10 Downing Street.

Jody Powell, the White House press secretary, arranges these things, and he's very good at them. If anybody criticizes his skipper, he is excessively protective and defensive, but when it comes to putting his man on television for the energy program or the forthcoming visit to Europe, he lines up the networks, and the President cooperates.

There was a bit of a controversy within the administration about how the President should approach his first official mission abroad. Some of his aides thought that modesty was the best policy, and that he should slip in quietly and take his place with the European and Japanese leaders without dominating the conference before it began, but the propaganda view prevailed.

Even so, the timing of his visit to Europe is good. His widely publicized energy program has had a better press in Western Europe than in the United States. In international terms, it has been noted that America is the biggest gas-guzzler in the world — taking over 50% of the supply for the industrial nations — and that therefore Carter's effort to reduce consumption, even if it doesn't get all the way through Congress, will leave more energy for the Western Europe, Japan and developing nations.

Moreover, he is taking a philosophy to the summit. Just as he is saying that the American people must change their ways, he is saying that the free nations of Europe, along with Japan, must also change their ways, and find common policies to deal with their common problems. Can they work together for a new order between the industrial and developing nations in the world? This is what Jimmy Carter will be asking.

It will be interesting to see how the leaders of Western Europe and Japan react to him personally and to his idealistic yearnings. By the end of the year, he is going to have to deal with the Soviets about arms control and human rights. He will probably have to go to Geneva to try to find some compromise between the Arabs and the Israelis. He is confronted with powerful forces for larger military budgets and more protectionist trade policies at home, and he will be trying to find out in his first summit meeting in London whether there is any possibility of finding some compromise.

This London summit conference next week is not like Roosevelt's London economic conference in the early 1930's — which was a disaster — but more like the early days of the Marshall Plan or European reconstruction program after the last world war, when Washington suggested radical new programs. Europe hesitated, but finally agreed to take Washington seriously.

As I understand it, Jimmy Carter is going to Europe to talk things over before he goes into the Soviet and Middle East problems, just to find out whether there is something left that is important, and try to get the industrial powers together.

There is obviously a feeling here that the democratic governments of the world are in trouble, that the dicey coalition governments of Western Europe don't know where they're going to be a year or two from now, and that the same is true of Japan. Also, that all these governments are vaguely confused by Carter and his new administration in Washington.

Maybe this is why Jody Powell persuaded the President to be interviewed by the major papers of Western Europe and the European television network. Carter, first of all, wants people to pay attention to him when he gets to London; but more important, he thinks he has something to say, and something he wants to find out.

He really believes in what has been called the trilateral system of America, Europe and Japan, and the London conference will be his first overseas test of this belief. After that, he will have to deal with the Middle East tangle and the struggle with the Soviets over the control of strategic arms, but he is going to London to test whether he is taken seriously, and whether the other free countries will find ways to get together.

Jimmy Carter is probably as confused about Europe as they are about him. "The worst kind of diplomatists are missionaries," Harold Nicolson observed, "the best kind are reasonable and human skeptics. Thus it is not religion which has been the main formative influence in diplomatic theory; it is common sense."

Europe is obviously worried about Carter, because it thinks he is a missionary, and will probably resent his propagandistic entrance into London, but he is going there with a clear intention of trying to find out what Europe has to say for itself.

Liberalism floundering in GOP ranks

Marquis Childs

Washington — The Republican answer to the Carter energy program is as predictable as the flowers that bloom in the spring and just about as long-lasting. It has that old familiar ring: Leave it to the free market and the price system.

There is no evidence that the Republican Party has learned anything from the debacle of last November. The closeness of the presidential election was no measure of the carnage in state capitols and the Congress. Today only five state legislatures have Republican majorities.

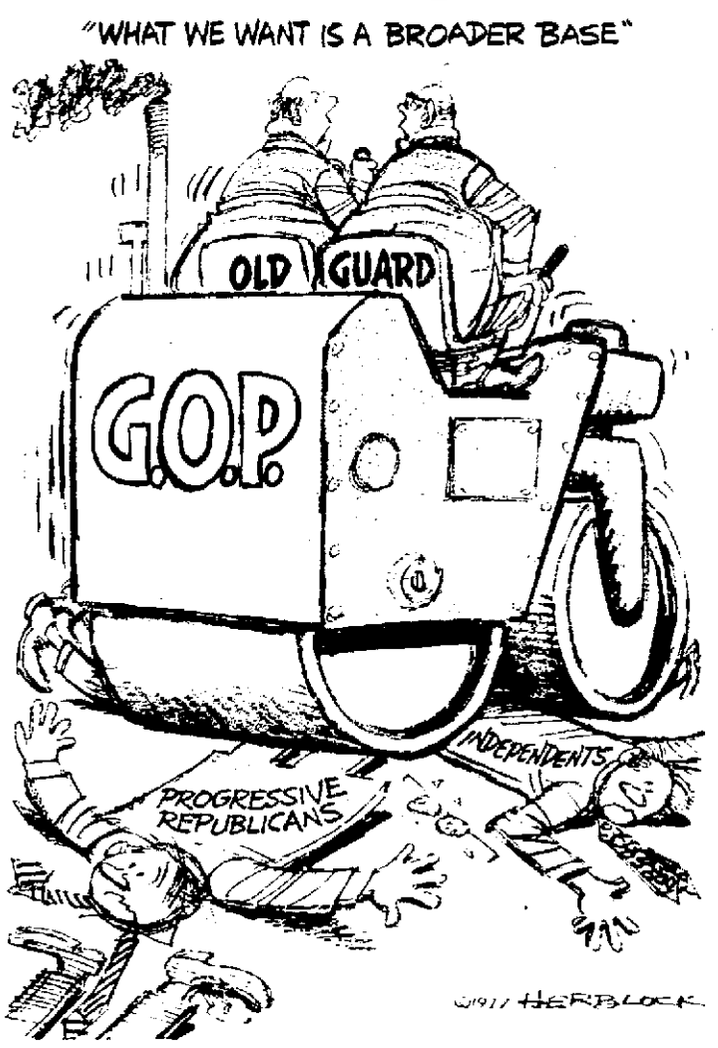

This means that where redistricting is to take place, the GOP can be redistricted practically out of existence. It is a sorry state for a once great party that held political supremacy through the decades of America's rising power and prosperity.

Moderate to liberal Republicans are in despair as they see the conservatives taking over in Washington. Such moderates as Senators Charles Percy of Illinois and Charles Mc. Mathias of Maryland may find fault with details of the energy program, but they are not prepared to shoot it down. Rumors have persisted that Mathias will switch from Republican to Democrat.

He was called on some time ago by Maryland labor leaders asking him to change his party affiliation. Since most of your views are more nearly those of the Democratic rather than the Republican Party, they argued, we believe you would be assured of re-election as a Democrat. Mathias is up in 1980. Inquiries about changing parties meet a Mathias pleasantry, but no firm response.

In California recently I talked with Republicans convinced that Ronald Reagan will have another go at the presidency in 1980. This may be merely a form of self-hypnosis, since these are the same Reaganites who steadfastly believe that if their man had been at the head of the ticket instead of Gerald Ford, he would have won.

Another Reagan run cannot be ruled out. If he were nominated and elected, he would be 69 years old on the day of his inauguration. Only once before have the voters picked a man of such advanced years. That was Gen. William Henry Harrison who died of penumonia one month after his inauguration in 1841 at the age of 68.

Reagan has the same big money backers who have been behind him during his two terms as governor of California and in his run for the presidency against an incumbent Republican. Money is, however, hardly one of Reagan's problems since his income from his column, syndicated radio programs and his frequent lectures is well over the half-million mark. The conservatives in the party who back him seem to have no alternative.

Neither can Gerald Ford be ruled out. He has begun a drum fire of attack on Carter without waiting for the grace period that most new presidents are granted by their predecessors. With the backing of fat contracts from television and publishing, he is making noises like a candidate. The margin of his loss was so narrow last year that the prospect must be tempting and particularly if Carter should fall on his face. Ford will be 64 years old in July.

As should be apparent to anyone with the real interests of the party at heart, another Reagan-Ford contest could only deepen the split, leaving two hostile bands to fight it out for an empty honor. It was Ford's misfortune that he should have had Reagan as a challenger. He was constantly moving to the right as he glanced nervously over his shoulder at the clamor of the Reaganites.

One consequence was that he sacrificed Nelson Rockefeller to the conservatives crying for blood and even went so far as to sacrifice the Kissinger foreign policy in a policy plank that beat a shameful retreat from all Kissinger had tried to do.

Moderates in the Senate and men in the House, like John B. Anderson of Illinois, are doing their best to hold a reasonable line. Mathias, Percy and 10 others, including Jacob Javits of New York, joined together several times in the campaign last year to try to persuade Ford that an important faction in the party did not go along with the conservative cause and therefore deserved some consideration. Their efforts were in vain.

I must admit to a rather strong personal feeling in this matter. Both my father and my grandfather in my native Iowa were devout Republicans who believed that anyone outside that happy fraternity was an outcast. My father, a delegate to Republican conventions for 30 years, wavered only at the selection of Warren Gamaliel Harding in 1920. It has been all downhill since that fatal error.

The rural gals assert their needs fulfilled

Point Of View

Lyons, Neb.

A recent article in The Star has been brought to my attention. Apparently the Federal Advisory Council on Women's Educational Programs was not too well informed on the subject of rural women's needs. The commission's criticism that the few educational programs run by the Agricultural Department for women are limited to cooking, sewing and buying clothes is simply not true.

I am a rural woman. Since my marriage, I have been enrolled in an extension club and profited much from available educational programs. Perhaps the development of community leadership is one of the most rewarding.

Rural women — in fact, any woman or rather, anyone (there is no discrimination) — have access to a wealth of educational programs. These programs extend the classrooms and research laboratories of the university to our homes, farms and communities.

In the area of health, the selection is varied from proper nutrition to cancer detection, the prevention or awareness of heart trouble, diabetes, kidney disorders, mental health and social problems. These programs are carried out through films, lectures, workshops and actual clinics with the women helping to plan and assist in presenting these educational opportunities.

Safety programs are very popular. Citizenship is another area where we have developed an awareness of good citizenship through studies. Family life is being threatened.

Cultural arts are also a part of our extended education. Rural women are not only developing an appreciation of the arts but they are participating in art classes, reviving many of the crafts, reading more, attending concerts and visiting museums to enrich their lives.

We are involved internationally through our affiliation with the Associated Country Women of the World. This gives us an opportunity to extend our knowledge to women all over the world. Through our volunteer contributions, we can assist families in the developing nations to raise their standard of living.

Originally extension programs were designed for rural women and many are involved. However, the extension programs are for everyone now. They originate in Washington, D.C., follow through on the state level, on down to the county and then extend to volunteer leaders who share programs with their club members and other friends here and around the world.

Does this sound as if the needs of rural women are ignored?

MELVA CHRISTENSEN

Past citizenship chairman, National Council of Home Extension Clubs
Life member, Associated Country Women of the World

Arnold, Neb.

The article, "Rural Women's Needs Ignored," is a misstatement and not entirely true. I'm speaking about Nebraska, since I am state president of the Nebraska Council of Home Extension Clubs. I have information to prove that rural women do receive training and information other than for sewing, cooking and buying clothes.

There are lessons in printed form on subjects such as "Death and Dying," "Estate Planning," "Scholarships," "Teaching," "Child Development," "Family Planning" and many more. There are steps taken in nearly all areas by the Extension Service to provide scholarship money for furthering the education of women. The status of women in Nebraska is perhaps a little more upgraded than some over-crowded poverty-ridden urban areas. But sex discrimination is hardly an issue in Extension-Service-related jobs.

As for training women to be paramedics where there is a scarcity of doctors — I agree this would be a fine effort, but the statement that "it is easier to get health care for brood sows than expectant mothers" is a misstatement, at least in Nebraska. Mothers in Nebraska are generally not "ignorant of methods of child care." Extension pamphlets and bulletins are numerous and available on child care, nutrition, clothing, diseases, education, baby-sitting. These same pamphlets and bulletins are free and are used in demonstration lessons to educate women in or out of Extension Clubs. The stipulation that material paid for by tax dollars cannot be restricted to any race, creed or color is rigidly enforced. In Nebraska the program, "Expanded Nutrition," reaches the poorest, unfortunate and deprived families. During the recent two or more years, the Extension Service has conducted diabetic detention clinics, high blood pressure clinics and arthritis seminars which have been free and open to the public.

It is true that information provided by the Agricultural Department does include sewing, cooking and household chores. But these are only a drop in the bucket as compared to the vast amount of subject matter covered, and it is all free to everyone.

In Nebraska the vocational and educational opportunities open to girls and women are increased every year by offers of scholarships to women to continue their education in nursing, dental assistants, licensed practical nursing, nurse aides and more in the medical field. These scholarships are paid for by funds made available by Extension Cooperative Service related groups.

MRS. VIC AUBLE

Nebraska President, N.C.H.E.C.

Brock, Neb.

As a rural woman, I would like to comment on the report of the National Advisory Council on Women's Educational Programs in The Star.

First of all, I believe most rural women ARE aware that they "can become more than wives and mothers." In fact, many rural women are employed in jobs away from their homes. Many other rural women are partners with their husbands in the farming business and find it a most interesting and certainly a challenging career.

I find it disappointing that a presidential commission would imply that the role of wife and mother is unimportant.

The statement that educational programs run by the Agricultural Department for women "are limited to cooking, sewing and buying clothes" is NOT accurate. The Cooperative Extension Service offers a wide range of programs for both rural and urban women. Here in Nebraska, the Extension Service has sponsored excellent programs in child development, family relations, finance, housing, home management, horticulture and nutrition, to name a few of the program areas.

The extension programs are available to all citizens on a volunt ary basis. Local people are involved in planning the extension programs based on the needs of the people.

I have participated in extension programs since I was a youngster and found them to be very beneficial. It was through 4-H (the youth program of the Cooperative Extension Service) that I learned about career opportunities when I was in high school. Yes, I grew up on a farm, graduated from the university and enjoyed a career as a professional home economist before becoming a full-time wife, mother and farm business partner.

I, like many rural women, decided on my career by choice, not from a lack of knowledge of career opportunities.

Aurora may get rail overpass

Associated Press

Aurora city officials Friday received assurances that the Nebraska Roads Department will study the feasibility of building a railroad underpass or overpass for that community.

Aurora Mayor Hans Jensen told state highway commissioners meeting Friday that the train traffic problem — as many as 40 Burlington-Northern trains a day — is hindering his city's development.

"The problem just won't go away," he said.

Jensen said the train traffic "could easily go to 50 or 55 a day," in the near future.

The feasibility of an underpass or overpass for U.S. Highway 14 could be studied this year, according to Deputy State Engineer Charles Nutter.

Train traffic is also a problem in Schuyler, the commission was told.

Mayor Russel Salak asked that construction of an overpass for Highway 15 be hurried. Commissioners told him the project is proceeding on schedule and they are awaiting approval of the final environmental impact statement.

Tom Clare, a businessman from Lincoln, told the commission that permits for roadside signs are not being issued uniformly.

He also said property owners should be allowed "a free hand," in renting their land for roadside signs.

State Engineer Thomas Doyle told Clare "I don't burn with a blue flame in support of sign removal.

"I do appreciate your minority opinion," Doyle said. "But the majority think the regulations are fair."

The tree removal issues arose once again, but with a different twist.

Commission staff said another hearing may be needed on a proposed seven-mile project on the St. Helena spur in Cedar County, although no rehearing has been requested. The project will involve the removal of some trees.

Commissioner Merle Kingsbury of Ponca moved and won approval of the project with no new hearing scheduled.

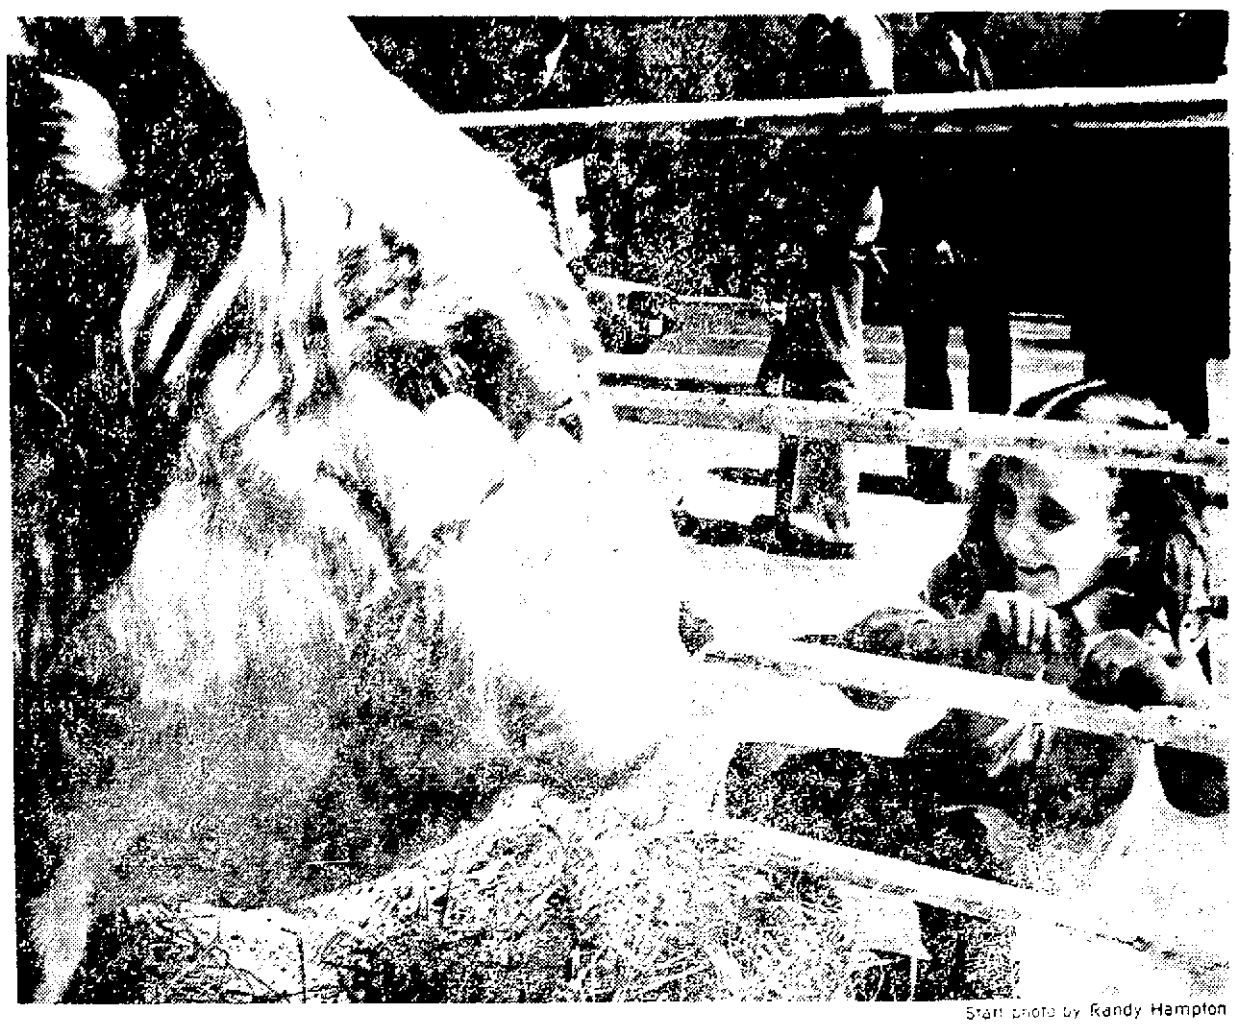

He said the roads department had met all federal and state environmental standards and regulations and "the people object to these delays."

In other action, the commission approved design and location of the following improvement projects to be submitted to the governor for his endorsement.

— Six miles of U.S. Highway 6 between 84th St. in East Lincoln to interstate 80.

— Six miles on state Highway 2 and U.S. 34 in Hamilton and Hall counties.

— Ten miles on U.S. Highways 73 and 75 in Richardson and Nemaha counties.

Nuclear plant halt prompts suit

United Press International

The Nebraska Public Power District Board of Directors Friday decided to sue the Omaha Public Power District to collect the $30 million the state agency has paid toward construction of the defunct Ft. Calhoun No. 2 nuclear power plant.

The board made its unanimous decision with little discussion during a meeting at Columbus. The vote followed a lengthy executive session that was closed to the public and reporters.

Board President Robert Peterson, of Lincoln said the decision to sue does not rule out an out-of-court settlement. However, he said, Nebraska Public Power must take some action to protect its ratepayers.

At Omaha, Rosemary Skrupa, OPPD board chairman, said she does not expect the NPPD action Friday to result in a "knock down, drag out fight" between the state's two largest power districts.

The suit "probably will never get to a courtroom," she said. "I just don't see us ending up in a quarrel. We will probably end up good friends, and they will probably be grateful to us for saving them money."

Mrs. Skrupa referred to the Omaha agency board's decision earlier this year to pull out of the partnership with NPPD in construction of the $1.2 billion nuclear plant. The OPPD board cited escalating costs and reduced demand for electricity in the Omaha area.

The OPPD management originally said the district could suffer a $42 million loss because of the pull out but Mrs. Skrupa said, "We really haven't defined what our losses are.

"Our losses may be very minimal," she said. "But how can you sue when you don't know what the amount is?"

She said OPPD has "more or less" salvaged its ecology study done for the Ft. Calhoun facility and could sell its fuel and enrichment contracts and generator to other utilities to recoup a part of the district's loss.

NPPD has retained Marvin Schmid, an Omaha attorney, to handle its case. The OPPD board has retained special counsel Jack North of Omaha.

Power plant bond sale OKd

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha Public Power District board of directors Friday approved the sale and authorized a purchase contract of $170 million in electric system revenue bonds.

The interest rate is 6¼%.

Directors said the bond money will be used for construction of the Nebraska City station and for a continuing program of general system improvements.

Mrs. Rosemary Skrupa, board president, said the nation's two leading financial rating agencies, Standard & Poor's and Moody's Investors Service, have retained the district's AA credit rating.

The bond issue will raise the district's total bonded indebtedness to $890 million. As of the end of March, OPPD's total property and plant value was $848 million and the customer equity was $253 million.

Latest estimates placed the cost of the 575,000-kilowatt coalfired Nebraska City plant at $352 million, including construction and interest costs.

The estimates did not include the cost of land, substation facilities, transmission lines, coal inventory, debt service reserve funds or financing costs.

The plant is scheduled for operation in May of 1979.

Cavanaugh: Public housing wasteful, ineffective

Omaha (AP) — Rep. John Cavanaugh told Nebraska and Iowa housing officials Thursday that public housing "has proven to be one of the most wasteful and ineffective programs the government has embarked on."

The Nebraska Democrat, a member of the House committee which deals with housing, said he thinks both Congress and the Carter administration are committed to doing something about housing.

New construction and housing rehabilitation programs are needed to both provide housing for needy persons and jobs for unemployed construction workers.

Although about 23 million Americans either live in substandard housing or can't afford adequate housing, only 2.5 million persons live in public housing, he said.

Filley barn heritage honored

The Nebraska State Historical Society Friday said the Elijah Filley stone barn near Filley in Gage County has been placed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Marvin Kivett, state historic preservation officer, said the barn, built of limestone in 1874, is one of the "most magnificent" barns in the state. It also is the largest limestone structure presently known, he said.

Police link bullets in shootout, Iowa death

Newton, Iowa (AP) — Investigators say they have traced the bullets used in a shootout in Nebraska to a bullet used in the death of a Florida man whose body was found in a van here Monday

Officials of the Adams County, Neb, sheriff s office said a link exists between the bullet that killed Don Kosar 27 and bullets used in a shootout between an Adams County officer and Andrew Patsios, 18

Patsios of Fairfield, Neb was arrested Monday in Hastings on a warrant of having insufficient funds in a checking account Authorities said Patsios pulled a 22-caliber gun on Capt Greg Magee and shot him three times Magee returned the gunfire

Magee was not seriously wounded but Patsios was reported in critical condition Thursday in an Omaha hospital

Newton authorities said they are unsure whether Patsios was in Newton where Kosar s body was discovered in his van The Iowa Bureau of Criminal Investigation (BCI) said the body was there four or five days and had been shot with a 22-caliber bullet

Newton Police Chief Arthur Greve said Thursday authorities were looking for a hitchhiker who may have clues to Kosar s death

Greve also said authorities are looking into a possible connection between two unsolved murders in Florida and Kosar s death

He said they are unsure whether one of the two men who spoke with a minister Saturday in Newton was Patsios but they are working on that assumption

Greve said one of the men is being sought as a possible witness to Kosar s death

The BCI said one of the men told the minister he had ridden with his companion in a van matching the one in which Kosar s body was found

State committee endorses plans for 5 gasohol plants

By Lynn Zerschling
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska s Gasohol Committee Friday endorsed a proposal to set up five plants around the country to produce fuel from grain

The proposal is incorporated into amendments being drafted for the Carter administration s farm bill by Sens Carl Curtis and Edward Zorinsky The senators plan to submit the proposal to the Senate s Agriculture Committee

The amendment would authorize federal loan guarantees to finance construction of the five gasohol plants

Gasohol is a motor fuel mix with 90 (unleaded gasoline and 10 (ethanol made from grain

The Gasohol Committee formally called the Agricultural Products Industrial Utilization Committee met in Lincoln Friday to discuss support for gasohol production

Don Shasteen administrative aide to Curtis said the production of gasohol is not going to be an answer to the national energy problem But what you can t do on the state level you can do on a regional level

Committee members said they were disappointed that Carter did not mention gasohol in his energy program announced to Congress several weeks ago

Committee member Holly Hodge of Holdrege said it was apparent Carter administration aides were unfamiliar with Nebraska s gasohol program and suggested it was time to ask for a second meeting with Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland Hodge said proponents of gasohol met with Bergland before he was named to the Cabinet post

Chappel surveys Union, Neb., happenings.

Old-timer lives free life

By Jules Loh

Union, Neb (AP) — He knows just about all 280 of the people in this town, and all their comings and goings, so when a hearse drove by, slowly, with its lights on, Chester Chappell was puzzled

"I wonder who that could be?" he said He fell silent for a moment, then smiled through his scraggly, tobacco-stained beard

They use to smuggle whiskey that way Put it in a hearse and drive it right down the highway That was during the time you couldn't buy legal whiskey "

Chester Chappell is as central a figure in this village as the red brick firehouse — he remembers when it was a harness shop — or the Wander-In beer joint and pool hall, the stone steps of which provide the vantage point where this rumpled old man of 70 gets his daily view of the world

Customers at the Wander-In greet him cordially, school children call out "Hi, Ches' ' as they hurry by, men in overalls wave from passing pickup trucks

If no one chooses to chat with him,he sits silently without complaint When the day is done, when all the children have gone home, when the shop doors are closed and locked, when the last train has been noted and its freight cars counted, Chester Chappell climbs the hill to his windowless hovel

It ain t the best place to live, but it will do me It was an old jailhouse at one time The town knows I'm here but there is no rent on it or nothing I carry my own water and I carry my wood and I make out all right

In the morning he will be back on the stone steps, observing and reminiscing with anyone who will listen

' I was born in an old rattle trap house near here, about 3½ miles southeast of Nehawka There were eight of us What chased us out of that house was bees That's right bees They got in and we couldn t get em out

' I ve worked all around I worked in the rock quarry and loaded trucks by hand I farmed I put up bundles and shocked grain for $3 a day Wasn't any big money in those days

"I cut wood I cut off my finger in a buzz saw cutting wood Didn t even feel it I went over to Jenny Moore s bar in Nehawka and got a big nip and it didn't even bother me

"I worked all up in Minnesota and the Dakotas Just took what jobs I could get I hopped trains and went south to work too Some trainmen would let you ride and some wouldn't You had to know which

"Those were hard times but they weren t all bad times I kind of enjoyed just taking off and not saying nothing, coming back when I chose I ve always been alone I never married

The hearse returned, lights off, and suddenly in the middle of the street turned around and returned to the cemetery

"Forgot the flowers," Chester Chappell said with authority "Couldn't be anything else That's the second time I've seen that happen But I still can t figure out who died "

On the Union Pacific tracks at the foot of Main Street a long freight crunched to a stop The old man watched When it pulled out he resumed his reflections

Two from the north, two from the south Sometimes there are extra ones, but that s usually all four trains a day

"The longest one I've seen was 126 cars When the old steam engines were on that line 10 or 12 cars were all they could pull up that grade

"Oh my health is fine My eyes ain't so good I carry this ' He took out a small magnifying glass wrapped in waxed paper, displayed it, returned it to his pocket "But I see well enough to get around

'I don t shoot pool anymore Use to They have a pool tournament every Friday night at the Wander-In and the shooters come from all around — Eagle, Weeping Water, Avoca, Nehawka Some real good shooters in that crowd

' The winner gets either money or a trophy The first time he wins he usually takes the trophy The second time he always takes the money

The hearse returned a second time It was filled with flowers

'What did I tell you

The old man shifted on the stone steps He contemplated going to the cafe for a sandwich Finally he decided, yes, that s what he would do he would go have a sandwich

Tomorrow? No, I don t think about what I m going to do tomorrow Tomorrow is too far away

3 named to ASCS committee

Nebraska apparently has a new state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) committee

The U S Agriculture Dept has notified Sen Ed Zorinsky that it has appointed Robert Rauner of Sidney Dale Sampson Jr of Utica and Ervain Friehe of McCook as members of the committee

Harold Rademacher of Lincoln said he is still acting as the state committee and is making decisions on grain facility loans until the appointments are official

"I really don t know when it will be made official, but it should definitely be in the next two weeks, possibly sooner They will be brought in and introduced to their jobs, and then I expect to return to the old job I had as a grain storage specialist, ' Rademacher said

Three others apparently have been dropped from consideration for the post They were Mike Eason of North Bend Ralph Lubeck of Stamford and Ralph O'Connor of Grafton

The committee jobs are part time Each member will be paid for each day worked and reimbursed for expenses, according to Rademacher

The announcement from Zorinsky's office in Washington indicated Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland had appointed Rauner chairman of the committee

This apparently is normal procedure instead of allowing the committee to elect its own chairman

Rauner was unavailable for comment He was hospitalized Wednesday for gall bladder problems and was scheduled for surgery Friday

Kearney bank bandit escapes

Associated Press

A lone bandit confronted a teller of the First National Bank of Kearney with a gun and an open leather bag Friday afternoon and escaped with about $2 900 authorities said

Officials believe he may be the same man who attempted unsuccessfully to rob the Cozad State Bank earlier Friday

Buffalo County Sheriff s officers, Kearney and state police searched for the man but he remained at large Friday evening The FBI entered the search late in the afternoon

The robber was described as a white man with a dark complexion in his early 30s, about six feet tall and 160 pounds, with rather short, dark hair He was wearing a black shirt and dark pants

Officials said he entered the bank about 2 p m went to a teller's window in the middle of the bank, pulled a handgun and told teller Jan Mrscek to fill a leather "clam bag" he was carrying with money

The man fled on foot, authorities said Police summoned by the bank s alarm were unable to find him

Officials said it was the first known bank robbery in Kearney since the 1930s when the Fort Kearny bank was robbed

Earlier Friday, a man fled after approaching a teller at a drive-in facility of the Cozad State Bank When the teller dropped to the floor, the man fled authorities said

It was believed the man drove away in a yellow and white compact car

The thwarted robber at the Cozad bank wore a mustache, officials said The man who robbed the Kearney bank was clean shaven

Omahan gets probation in gambling case

Omaha (AP) — Harlan L Warddrip 59 of Omaha was sentenced Thursday to two years probation in a gambling conspiracy case

Warddrip s appearance in U S District Court repeatedly had been delayed because of illness

He pleaded guilty to involvement in a 1973 gambling conspiracy involving Omaha bookie Clarence Matya and 13 other people

A federal grand jury indicted the 15 people in February 1973 Most other defendants including Matya either pleaded guilty or were found guilty

Warddrip told Judge Robert Denney he once purchased the Green Onion Lounge in Omaha with a $44,000 interest free loan from Matya.

Warddrip told the judge he agreed to refer all gambling business to Matya and also collected wagers from bettors for Matya

Shirley Maly thinks "doubling up" is a better way to get to work.

She's a carpool believer

By Gordon Winters
Star Staff Writer

Autos have their salesmen, highways have their lobbyists, bus systems have their advertising managers and now . . . carpooling has Shirely Maly.

For almost two months she has been on the job in City Hall, working on plans to polish up the tarnished image carpooling has acquired among more lustrous concepts of transportation.

She thinks the climate is right to, in the words of a bumper sticker she is passing out, "Share the ride with a friend. Double Up."

"It's part of the whole thing of using the resources we have more efficiently," she observed during a week in which President Jimmy Carter was making a series of addresses on the energy shortage

The city has jumped into carpooling promotion in a relatively big way. Ms. Maly heads a mini agency which includes an assistant and a secretary which was recently joined to the City-County Planning Department by the City Council.

The mini agency has an annual budget of $85,400, which includes a $22,000 item for public relations All but 10% of the budget is federally funded.

Much of Ms. Maly's time to date has been spent getting the new program off the floor. One of her duties is writing a "work program" which lets other parts of government know what she is up to.

Another task is readying computer programs which will be used after the carpooling promotion gets in gear Ms. Maly is envisioning the computer being used to spot people who live and work in the same general area.

Her test case will be the County-City Building. Later she will move on to the State Office Building and other larger private employers such as Kawasaki.

People who think they might be interested in carpooling will be invited to fill out cards which will then be fed into the computer to identify possible carpools. Ms Maly said.

The program is strictly voluntary, she stressed, and will consist mainly of getting people together to see if they want to try it.

The whole idea is based on cooperation, she said. "If you can't stand to have people talk to you in the morning, let them know about it," she said

She also has been developing a list of suggested rules to help embryonic carpools achieve the 24-year record for longevity which has been reached by four downtown employes.

The rules include: 1. Have a clean, safe car 2 Determine the pickup route and how long the driver will wait for the rider 3. Plan a backup system for emergencies such as a driver becoming sick during the day

Ms Maly thinks that carpooling makes good economic sense which will become more apparent as gasoline prices rise.

The yearly cost of making a 10-mile round trip for work, at 15 miles per 60c gallon, plus 14c per mile for depreciation, insurance, accessories, oil maintenance and taxes and $1 50 per day parking, is $830 annually, she said.

With two riders the cost drops to $420.84, with three riders it's $279 72, with four $209.16. The same transportation by bus would cost $126.

"I think this is a good thing," she said of carpooling "It becomes a challenge to see what you can do to make it work. Why don't people see the same value you do?"

Facelift is a deduction

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY I know you're not a tax expert, but I understand that you consult top authorities in all fields, so I'm writing to you

I am a 59-year-old woman, and believe me, I look every day of it — and then some. My husband recently died after a terrible 18-month illness, and all that weeping and grieving put years on my face.

I'm sure a facelift would not only improve my appearance, but do wonders for my morale, so I've decided to get one. A friend who had one four years ago tells me that a facelife is NOT a tax deductible medical expense Another friend who recently had one tells me that it is! Is it or isn't it?

WRINKLED IN NEW YORK

P.S. Have you ever had a facelift, Abby?

DEAR WRINKLED: No, I never have, but when I think I need one, I'll certainly give it serious consideration.

And now, I have some good news for you: A new wrinkle concerning getting rid of the old ones developed last year. The I.R.S. ruled that the cost of cosmetic surgery is a legitimate deductible medical expense. Women (and men, too) can now get a complete facelift — chin, neck, jowls, under the eyes, the eyelids — the works — and it's tax deductible!

I am indebted to my good friend, Sylvia Porter, for this up-to-date information. And if you don't own a copy of her MONEY BOOK, get one. It can save you a small fortune.

DEAR ABBY If an American man marries a European woman, does she automatically become an American citizen? Answer in your column as soon as possible as a very important decision is predicated on your reply.

DON'T SIGN THIS

DEAR DON'T: No one "automatically" becomes an American citizen by marrying an American. There is a three-year waiting period. Then tests must be taken. If the tests are passed, the person must then be "sworn in."

DEAR ABBY You may not understand how I feel, Abby, but I'm sure your divorced readers will

Seven years ago, after 40 years of marriage, my husband left me and married another woman

I see him from time to time, and I still care for him

Lately when I receive my alimony check, it is sent in an envelope with a return address sticker reading, "MR AND MRS ———

Abby, when I take that envelope out of my mailbox, it's like a slap in the face It's bad enough to know that another woman is using the name I so proudly used for 40 years without seeing it in print Do you think he'd doing it to deliberately hurt me, or is he just thoughtless and insensitive?

Should I ask my ex to please not use those stickers? Or would that be childish of me?

HURT AT 69

DEAR HURT: There's nothing childish about wanting to avoid pain. He's probably just thoughtless. Mention it to him.

Hate to write letters" Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24c) envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212 Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24c) envelope.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 ♥	Pass

Opening lead - king of spades.

Let's assume you're West and your worthy adversaries get to four hearts on the bidding shown. You're unlikely to beat the contract on high cards alone, so you lead the king of spades, hoping to engineer a spade ruff for East.

When dummy shows up with three spades, your wishes are gratified — since East is marked by the bidding with a singleton spade even though he plays the discouraging deuce on your king. He cannot have a doubleton spade. With that holding, he would have started a high-low signal to show it.

However, you must not be swept away by the brilliance of your analysis and hastily continue with the ace and another spade. East would ruff, all right, but South would win the rest of the tricks by drawing trumps and discarding dummy's diamond loser on one of his high spades.

Instead you should lead a low spade at trick two, not the ace! Once you do this, South is doomed. East ruffs and returns a diamond, and now you have declarer over a barrel. You're bound to score both a spade and a diamond to put the contract down one.

As a matter of fact, South will probably go down two — 200 points — on this lively method of defense. After East forces out the ace of diamonds at trick three, South is almost sure to try a club finesse as his only hope of salvaging the contract.

He will probably play two rounds of trumps and finesse the queen of clubs, hoping to discard his diamond loser on the ace of clubs if the finesse succeeds. This gallant effort would fail, and you would have a right to congratulate yourself for a good defensive play at trick two.

Brewery gets extra boost

New Ulm, Minn. (AP) — A typographical error in a city pamphlet embarrassed some local officials.

The pamphlet describing summer recreation activities tells of trapshooting instruction for youths. The item said guns are furnished but participants must bring their own "schells."

Schells is the name of a locally brewed beer.

Never felt alone with God

Life Begins At Forty

By Joanne Farris

DEAR JOANNE FARRIS: Somehow I can't resist writing in answer to a letter from Sad Sack that appeared in your column recently in a Seattle newspaper.

I'm 64 this June, have never married and have always lived alone. I wouldn't have it any other way

It's difficult for someone whose circumstances are similar to mine to understand how a person can be so at loose ends that there is nothing to make demands on her time. It seems to me that church isn't doing this person very much good In fact, everything she does seems to be only something to kill the time And time is very previous

I suggest to her that she pick up the Bible the next time she's alone and try reading some of the passages that she must have heard hundreds of times in her life so far but has never found any meaning in. I am sure she will find some doors opening in her religious life that she never tried before

I am never alone I have never been alone since I became a Christian I'm not a religious fanatic either, I've never pressed my ideas on anyone in all these years But this person has missed, evidently, the simplest meaning in her Christian religion She'd better look for it now. When she's 90 and sitting alone perhaps all day unable to be active, she'll need to be comforted more than she does now. Signed: J. F., Eugene, Ore.

ANSWER: An active religious faith enriches the believer, and anyone who believes in a loving God is never completely alone.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR JOANNE FARRIS: Our wonderful daughter, an only child, has just gotten a divorce after 13 years of what we thought was a happy marriage. My wife and I are just sunk about it, and feel a certain shame that we have allowed ourselves to become so upset At times it seems to me as if our daughter is comforting us when she needs to be comforted even more. She and her daughters seem to be taking a much more positive attitude than my wife and I have been able to muster

I wonder if other older readers experience this acute sense of loss when a child of theirs gets a divorce? Signed P.S., Lakeland, Fla

ANSWER: Have you experienced death of a close relative? If so, think back to your reaction at that time for clues as to how you will work this grief out

For loss by divorce is a kind of death, and persons who go through it experience similar feelings. Furthermore, in the case of divorce, there's the inevitable tendency to second-guess about how things could have been done differently, how anyone involved could have helped to save the marriage, and those thought processes can pile up some guilt if they're not dealt with forthrightly.

Your daughter and her girls may have done more of the working-through grief during the actual divorce process In fact, a good deal of it may have been done before the divorce happened

Perhaps you can take comfort from the fact that your daughter has used her strength to free herself from a bad life situation Your pride in her may sustain you until your acceptance of the loss grows.

How have other readers dealt with this dilemma? Send your comments to Joanne Farris, in care of this newspaper

Legionnaire's Disease may have killed 2 more

Atlanta (UPI) — Medical scientists slowly unraveling the mystery of the Legionnaires' Disease that killed 29 persons in Philadelphia last summer said Friday laboratory evidence indicates the same ailment took the lives of two persons at a convention at the same hotel in 1974.

Don Berreth, public information officer for the Center for Disease Control, said the 1974 outbreak occurred at a convention of the International Organization of Odd Fellows at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia, the hotel where the Pennsylvania American Legion held its ill-fated convention.

It did not come to light until late last year, he said, and was reported in detail at a meeting of the CDC's epidemiological intelligence service officers Thursday.

Berreth said blood was tested from six Odd Fellows who survived the illness and antibodies to the Legionnaires' Disease bacterium — indicating a previous infection — were found in two. He said the Odd Fellows outbreak three years ago went unrecognized at the time.

Not so long ago there were two of you. Now there are three, and you can almost see your baby grow from day to day. You get to thinking about it. Soon he'll be walking, talking, asking questions.

Are you ready to answer them? Or, are you confused? Wondering the way the world is going, just where it is going to go?

The Church isn't going to give you a set of printed answers. But it will give you something much more valuable. It will help to start working out those answers for yourself.

Try it.

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"
Psalms 2 and Acts 4:25

This question is the first clause of the first sentence of The Second Psalm of God Almighty's Book! God Himself is quite an Author! Quite an Editor! Quite a Columnist! He is "King of Kings, Lord of Lords — Where the word of a king is, there is power — The Word of God is quick and powerful —." He spake and the worlds came into existence, including Milky Ways and Galaxies millions of "light years" distance. We like to hear that great song "How Great Thou Art" but how is it that we don't like to read His Book and hear all He has to say, and learn of Him whom to know is Eternal Life? In the Old Testament there are approximately seventeen hundred and fifty passages (1750) prefaced by "Thus saith The Lord," "God spake," or kindred words that indicate God Himself is speaking. But our generation has but little, if any, time for all that talk: "The Ancient of Days is out of date." Is it not so, Mr. Modernist, D. D.? Nevertheless, He holds the world world in His Hand! He holds the tiny baby in His Hand! In commenting on Jesus' statement regarding the little children: "Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven," someone has observed that after the little children appear on the scene as a "little bundle from heaven," dwell and are in the hands of parents, school teachers, preachers, etc. whose hearts are "deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked," and never find it out, that of many of these children after a few years it might truly be said "Of such is the kingdom of hell and devil!" Where is the sincere grown person that don't feel ashamed and responsible that there are grounds for such an observation?

Yes, God is quite an Author! He used about forty different secretaries over a period of about 1500 years to produce His Book, The Bible, and in the closing words warned men not to meddle with it by taking from, or adding to! Martin Luther was quite an intellectual giant, and a very learned man. Hear what he said regarding some of the great of the earth who have raged against The God of The Bible: "Infinite potentates have raged against This Book, and have sought to destroy and uproot it — king Alexander the Great, the princes of Egypt and Babylon, the monarchs of Persia, of Greece, and of Rome, the emperors Julius and Augustus — but they nothing prevailed: they are all gone and vanished, while the Book remains, and will remain for ever and ever, perfect and entire, as it was declared at first." Take heed Modernists, New Translators, scorners and scoffers, you too will all soon be gone and vanish, but The Book will remain because God is its Author. Jesus Christ said of it: "The Scriptures cannot be broken." Take courage and rejoice fundamentalists. John Wesley was called a "Bible Bigot" in mockery. But where are the mockers?

Consider this Great Author and His Book scribes and writers of various and sundry kinds and assortments, all the way from the respected preachers, editors, columnists, etc., down to the miserable wretches that vomit and puke forth their vile and obscene filth that corrupts and perverts the sacredness of marriage vows and God ordained sex relations, affecting perversely even the unborn generation — if God permits another one to arrive. (The God of The Bible in ordering the utter destruction of the Canaanites said they were so vile that the land itself vomited them out — maybe our time is near!) There is a definite connection between high grade and low grade scribes mentioned above, in that when the "highs" neglect or reject the "wisdom that comes down from above," savor of the things that be of men and not those of God, then the door is gradually opened for the devil to enter with his cohorts and men and society sink lower and lower. The Great Author says in His Book that every idle word that men speak they shall have to give account of in the day of judgement. Look to yourselves! Look at that great stack of stuff on file of your verbal effusions your mind has manufactured for the pulpit, for the newspapers, for magazines, etc., to feed the minds of men, women and children. It may be that some writers don't keep a file of their writing, but as soon as they get their check burn the junk and laugh at the "suckers." But God has it all on file in your record and He says He will bring every secret thing into judgement, whether it be good, or whether it be evil.

Here is a suggestion if you are interested in having a vital and successful Christian experience: Consider and meditate on Joshua 1:8, and Daniel 1:8, and Galatians 1:8. Sincere meditation on God's Law will show you that you are a lost soul, and point you to the Saviour. Purpose to obey Him and stick to your purpose like Ruth did to Naomi (Ruth 1:16 and 17); and like Daniel did to his purpose, and he and his friends gained the victory in the fiery furnace and in the lions den. Then hold fast to Galatians 1:8 and the apostates, the false prophets, the false preachers, and the devil won't be able to get you.

Copland concert success for attendance and music

By Deb Gray
Star Staff Writer

When composer Aaron Copland's first orchestral work, "The Symphony for Organ and Orchestra," was performed in 1925, Copland was composing in a musical idiom not readily accepted by his audiences.

But, 51 years later, the filled-to-overflowing crowd that heard the same work performed Friday night at First Plymouth Congregational Church gave the 76-year-old composer, on his first visit to Nebraska, a standing ovation.

Copland conducted a concert Friday evening that included four of his compositions.

The program was not only an attendance success, but also an artistic success for ensembles such as the Nebraska Wesleyan University Choir and the Nebraska Chamber Orchestra — ensembles which usually do not perform to audiences as large as the one Friday night.

Dr. William Wyman, NWU choir director and the coordinator of this week's Copland festival, is to be congratulated for the selections he made for the evening's program.

Since the Copland works presented are not as widely performed as some of his symphonies, the Lincoln audience was exposed to Copland compositions it probably had never heard before.

The program opened with "In the Beginning," a 17-minute choral work set to the text of the creation story in the book of Genesis.

In its technical complexity, the work is demanding, structured around the interplay between the chorus and a mezzo-soprano narrator. NWU voice student Lynn Moorer gave an accurate rendition of a difficult solo part.

The Nebraska Wesleyan Choir obviously had worked hard for this performance. The practice paid off in an outstanding performance by a young choir.

The most exciting work of the evening, in terms of its sheer power, was "The Canticle of Freedom," which was first performed in 1955.

The canticle featured a mass choir made up of members from Nebraska Wesleyan, Doane College, First Plymouth Congregational Church and Christ United Methodist Church.

The piece closes with a magnificent section with choir and orchestra and crescendoes into a moving testiment to the nobility of freedom.

The weakest of the four pieces performed at the concert was "As It Fell Upon a Day," a short chamber work composed on a text by Richard Barnefield, a contemporary of William Shakespeare.

The evening closed with the "The Symphony for Organ and Orchestra." John Levick, minister of music and fine arts at First-Plymouth Congregational Church, was the featured organ soloist.

Mr. Copland's next performance in Lincoln will be Saturday evening at the Sports Complex on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus. He will conduct the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra in "Lincoln Portrait." CBS news anchorman Walter Cronkite will narrate the work.

Walker praises Malone area

City Council candidate Dorothy Walker Friday praised the Malone neighborhood for its plans to determine the zoning policy for the neighborhood.

Ms. Walker, who is stressing the need for more involvement by neighborhoods in city government, said she would like to see other areas of Lincoln develop their own neighborhood zoning policies.

Mortensen backs evaluations

Lincoln school board candidate Lynn Mortensen has called for continuous evaluation of staff and administration of the schools to "maintain and upgrade quality."

"We already have informal evaluation of administration and staff and formal appraisal every three years. An improved system might include input from parents, students and peers," she added.

Waechter would involve parents

Lincoln school board candidate Jerry Waechter feels that parents should be allowed to "participate in a meaningful way with the schools in curriculum decisions."

Mrs. Waechter said a program should be implemented to involve "parents and teachers jointly in determining standards of discipline for their school. These standards would then have strong parental support."

Wall: Care needed in selection

The Lincoln Board of Education should take greater care in selecting and evaluating school administrators and teachers, according to school board candidate Milan Wall.

"In the decentralized school system Lincoln has devised, school administrators and teachers play important roles in decision-making at many levels," said Wall. "We must keep that in mind when we select them, and we must ensure that they are supported adequately, evaluated regularly and rewarded positively for excellent performance.

No progress evident Friday in Lincoln teachers' contracts

By J. L. Schmidt
Star Staff Writer

Negotiations between the Lincoln Board of Education and the Lincoln Education Association (LEA) could be forced to the "fact-finding stage" if teachers don't get a raise.

That's the suggestion of LEA President Bob Nielsen after negotiations Friday afternoon, in the fifth, and somewhat emotional, session in recent weeks.

"It's been a long year," Nielsen said. "We want teachers to have a raise. If we're forced to move to a 190-day contract, I will recommend that we go to fact-finding."

Such a move could mean one of two things: taking the case to the Court of Industrial Relations, or calling in a neutral third party to act as a partial mediator.

"I can see going below 9% (for a salary increase) if you (the board) want to shorten the contract year," he added.

The 9% would be the total salary-fringe benefits dollar increase over current figures. The board has offered a base salary of $9,250 and a monthly increase of $3 in fringe benefits paid to teachers. The current base is $8,745, and the new board offer would mean an 8% increase.

LEA has asked for a $9,500 base with no increase in benefits and a longevity step (representing a small salary increase) at the 25th year of a teachers career in the system. The board always has declared the longevity step out of the question.

The LEA proposal would be a 10.1% increase, or slightly more than $1,969,656 in additional cost to the school district.

LEA Executive Director Bob Peterson said he is concerned that some items the board had agreed would be negotiable, in the beginning, "have been continually rejected." Among them is the length of contract and a paid vacation for teachers.

Both are long-discussed items. LEA originally sought a five-day reduction in contract length from the current 190 days to 185, but offered an alternative of 188 days Friday. The board rejected that offer, as in the past, with chief negotiator Terry Workman saying, "You have to realize the amount of work we are presently trying to squeeze into 190 dyas, to provide quality education."

The LEA vacation proposal was modified Friday to allow a teacher one day of paid vacation for every month of full-time service worked, with the option of taking the time, with approval, after accumulating five days.

Workman rejected that proposal, noting that teachers have "sufficient time off in the summer" to compensate for any paid vacation.

Peterson countered that such an arrangement is "discrinimatory," considering full-time 12-month employes of the schools get vacations.

Nielsen told the negotiators that results of a teacher survey, concerning work load, show that the average time worked by a Lincoln teacher is 55 hours and 25 minutes a week. In addition, he noted, the same teacher spends about seven hours working on school-related things at home.

Hampton spending hits top

City Council candidate Joe R. Hampton has regained the lead in campaign financing with sums almost twice as large as Sue Bailey, who is last in financing.

The figures for the second general election reporting period show Hampton has received $8,317 since campaigning began in the primary.

Hampton's reports provide almost no clue to the sources of his campaign contributions. In contrast to other candidates he has not been revealing the names of contributors under $100, and he has reported no contributions more than $100.

The reports also show that Hampton, who had been hoarding considerable sums in his campaign war chest, spent $3,093 in this period alone, most of it to The Thompson Co., an advertising firm.

By comparison, Mrs. Bailey, who has the lowest financing totals, reported total campaign receipts of $4,336.72, including a loan of $600 from herself to the campaign committee.

She has spent $4,260 and has an unpaid printing bill of $424.

Running second in campaign financing is Leo Scherer, who has reported a total of $7,046 in campaign receipts and $7,244 in spending.

Dorothy Walker reported receipts of $5,100, including two $500 loans this campaign reporting period. She has spent $4,861.

John Robinson has reported receipts of $4,713 and spending of $4,329. T. R. Allan showed no new receipts or spending in this reporting period. His total, unchanged from last time are $4,959 in receipts and $4,659 in spending.

Two $100 contributions showed up on Scherer's report. One is from Don Shurtleff, 1309 L, a real estate and investment executive and the other is from Joseph Rosenberg, a retired salesman.

Scherer also received $50 from the Lincoln Building Trades Council. Mrs. Bailey received $50 from the Lancaster County Democratic Committee.

The campaign finance report is the last due before the May 3 general election. Final reports are due several weeks after the election.

Stock market is mixed

Dow Ind. —0.42

New York (AP) — The stock market was mixed Friday in a quiet session dominated by continuing speculation that the Federal Reserve had begun to tighten credit

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks slipped .42 to 926 90, finishing the week with a net loss of .17

Most other indicators showed moderate gains for the day. Advances outnumbered declines by about a 5-3 margin on the New York Stock Exchange, and the exchange's composite index picked up .12 to 53 66

As the market opened the Commerce Department reported a 1 4 per cent jump in the index of leading economic indicators last month—the sharpest increase it has shown since July of 1975

The figures provided new evidence that business activity was rebounding strongly from the bad-weather setback it experienced early in the year

But analysts said the market was held back by concern that the Federal Reserve might have begun encouraging a rise in short term interest rates

Expectations that the Fed's anti-inflation strategy might call for a slight tightening of credit have been prompted by a recent acceleration in the growth of the money supply

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials rose .22 to 109 even, and S&P's 500-stock composite index was up .24 at 98 44

Lucky Stores, the most active issue as of the 4 p m close of the NYSE, was up ½ at 14¼. A 187,700-share block traded at 13½

General Electric climbed 1⅛ to 53⅞ in active trading. The stock has been strong since mid-week, when the company projected higher second quarter earnings

Burlington Northern gave up 1⅜ to 49¼ on Securities and Exchange Commission criticism of the company's financial reporting methods

Phillips Petroleum fell 1½ to 53¼ following the failure of another effort to cap the Phillips oil well in the North Sea which blew out a week ago

Hospital stocks, which have been depressed recently by President Carter's proposals to limit the rise of hospital rates, rallied on the strength of some analysts favorable comments on the group

Humana climbed 1⅞ to 16⅜, and American Medicorp was up ⅝ at 9⅛

Pickwick International added 1⅜ to 22 and American Can tacked on ⅛ to 39¾. The two companies announced a definitive merger agreement

EPA standards hearing slated by grain dealers

United Press International

Contending the timing here is critical," the Nebraska Grain and Feed Dealers Association said Friday it planned to sponsor a hearing allowing Nebraska grain operators to voice their opinions on the environmental protection agency's recently approved grain elevator source performance at standards

These standards passed out by the EPA will make the difference in many grain elevator operations across the entire state being able to stay in business," said Robert Anderson Lincoln association executive vice president

The timing here is critical, Anderson said. "The grain trade wants a clean environment but not at the cost of helping put the farmer and the grain trade out of business

The EPA has extended the time for public comment on the regulations from March to May 14 and Anderson said the association's hearing would be held May 7 at the York city auditorium

Beef plant to close 'temporarily'

Omaha (AP) — American Beef Packers Inc will close its Omaha plant temporarily beginning Saturday board chairman Harry Nelson said Friday

The closing will affect about 240 workers Nelson said

Nelson said the plant was being closed to help meet a payment due to the firm's principal lender

Nelson said the company is seeking additional sources of financing in order to reopen the plant as soon as possible

The company's Oakland, Iowa plant will continue normal operation, Nelson said

Barrow, gilt trade active

Omaha (AP) — Trading was active on barrows and gilts in Omaha Friday and prices were mostly steady

Sows were 25-75 higher, some up 1 00 higher, with the most advance on weights under 450 pounds

Hunts said manipulating soybean trade

Chicago (AP) — Soybean futures prices closed the limit higher on the Chicago Board of Trade Friday, but sources said the market was not influenced by charges that members of the Hunt family of Texas had been manipulating trading

The Commodities Futures Trading Commission charged in U S District Court Thursday that seven members of the family had been in violation of federal law since Jan 17

The commission contends the Hunts violated a provision governing the amount of soybean futures any party may hold. This is designed to prevent any trader or group of traders from gaining a corner on the market and artifically to manipulate prices

Board of Trade sources said there was a huge demand for soybean futures Friday, independent of any concern over the federal charges, and that this accounted for the limit higher increase of 45 cents for some contract months. May soybeans closed at $9 85 a bushel

The federal agency asked the court to compel the Hunts to sell any soybean holdings in excess of the legal limit and to yield any profits illegally gained

Those named are W H Hunt, his son Douglas Hunt and his brother, Nelson Bunker Hunt, Nelson's son, Houston Bunker Hunt, and three of Nelson's daughters, Ellen Hunt Flowers, Mary Hunt Huddleston and Elizabeth Bunker Hunt

Soybeans up

Chicago (AP) — Old crop soybean futures advanced 45 cents on the Chicago Board of Trade Friday after four days of declines that totaled $1 23

Soybean meal was up the allowable limit of $15 a ton and soybean oil prices rose to the limit of 100 points or 1 cent a pound. Deferred options in soybeans and in meal posted lesser gains but the nearby oil options were about one half as strong as the limit close

Wheat futures came under heavy late selling pressure and lost 5 cents. Corn and oats prices were narrowly mixed

Track abandonment hearing set

Associated Press

The Interstate Commerce Commission will hold a hearing in Norfolk July 12 on a request by the Chicago and North Western railroad to abandon 172 miles of track

Norfolk Sen Keith Boughn is heading opposition to the proposed abandonment involving track between Norfolk and Winner S D

Boughn says it would be unwise to abandon any railroad track mileage given the uncertainty of today's energy situation

"Can we afford to dismantle the tracks of the C & NW between Norfolk and Winner, thereby removing what in the future could prove to be the principal transportation means for some 14 villages and towns between those terminal points?" Boughn asked

Burns to end silent springs with bang today?

By Dave Sittler
Staff Sports Writer

Fans attending Saturday's Red-White game should take a moment to seek out, watch and enjoy Eddie Burns.

The 1:30 p.m. kickoff at Memorial Stadium will mark the beginning of the fourth and last time around for Burns in the annual gridiron clash.

Just the fact that Burns — wearing No. 17 and quarterbacking the White team — will be in uniform is a testimony to his tenacity.

Most players, battling the same odds, would have chucked the game long ago and would be sitting in the stands along with the more than 20,000 fans who are expected to show up for the 18th annual game marking the end of spring practice.

"I've never considered myself a quitter," Burns, a graduate of Omaha Rummel, said.

All things considered, few people would have considered Burns a quitter if he had decided to pass up his final season as a Husker.

To date, the 6-2, 210-pound senior has spent his time battling injuries while relegated to running the scout team.

That's the team with the dubious honor of imitating the upcoming opponent. The team runs the foe's plays and takes a pounding from the No. 1 defense.

"I got to know Coach (Monte) Kiffin pretty good," Burns said with a chuckle while recalling his scout squad days working against the former Nebraska defensive coordinator's products.

Burns spent three years off and on with the scout team. He ran it his redshirt year, his sophomore year and again last season while recovering from a broken thumb.

Hoping for a crack at varsity action, Burns played in just one game last season. He threw two passes against Kansas State, completing one for seven yards while the other was intercepted. That was it.

"Sure there have been times when I've been pretty discouraged," Burns said. "But this is a good program and I've got a scholarship.

"And I knew if I quit I always would have wondered if I could have made it."

Burns' tenacity has started to pay off. He'll not only be in pads Saturday, but he'll be fighting for the No. 1 job. After three silent springs and as many long falls, Burns is enjoying success.

On the latest depth chart, Burns is listed along with Randy Garcia, Tim Hager, Tom Sorley and Jeff Quinn in the top quarterbacking spot. Coach Tom Osborne is having a difficult time selecting a replacement for Vince Ferragamo.

"I was always confident that I could do the job," Burns said. "I've set through four years of quarterback meetings and have built up a lot of knowledge from them.

"Granted, game experience is important, but I think I have the confidence to overcome my lack of experience."

There are still discouraging moments for Burns. Like last Sunday's scrimmage when he sprained an ankle after his first chance at running the first team offense. "It was the first sprained ankle I've ever had," Burns said.

Thanks to his family, the low points never last too long. Burns and his wife have three children — Jimmy, 3; Michelle 2, and Joey, almost a year.

"They (the family) have been great for me," Burns said. "Instead of going home at night and sitting around pouting, they are there to help me take my mind off things.

"Marriage has been a blessing. It's been terrific."

The Burns family will be on hand Saturday to see if their dad can lead the White squad to its third consecutive victory. The Whites won last year, 29-26, in the series which started in 1954.

Osborne has split the squad with the No. 1 and 4 teams facing the No. 2 and 3 teams.

Beatrice's Rod Carlson lets go with a put Friday in Apollo meet.

Huskers keep hopes alive

By Ken Hambleton
Staff Sports Writer

Nebraska kept its Big Eight baseball tournament hopes alive Friday as the Huskers trimmed Iowa State 4-2 and 6-4 in a Big Eight Eastern Division doubleheader at the NU diamond.

The NU wins, combined with Missouri's 5-1, 3-2 sweep over Kansas, gives the Huskers an opportunity to join the Tigers in the conference meet in Oklahoma City in May.

Missouri, now 9-1 in the division, clinched the title, while dropping Kansas to 5-5. Nebraska, now 4-6 in the conference, can earn the other berth in the tourney by sweeping ISU in a twinbill Saturday at noon, combined with the Tigers topping KU at least once in two games, also slated Saturday.

The Huskers used nine total hits plus strong pitching performances by senior Kirk Eymann and freshman reliever Gary Nolting to sweep the Cyclones in Friday's doubleheader.

In the opener, Steve McManaman provided NU with all the runs it needed by smacking a grand slam homerun in the third inning off ISU starter Scott DeGeest, who gave up just five hits going the distance.

Eymann, now 4-2, held the Cyclones to seven hits, walked one and struck out 10 to gain the victory.

McManaman singled in two runs in the third inning of the second game to pull NU to within a 4-2 margin.

Iowa State jumped to a 4-0 lead in the second game, when Chris Jones tripled in a run and scored on an error, and Charlie Weber doubled in another run in the third inning.

The Huskers, now 25-11 overall, closed the gap to 4-2 in the bottom of the third when McManaman singled in two runs. NU added another run in the fourth, when shortstop John Dingledine doubled and scored on an error.

Nolting, who relieved Husker starter Jeff Costello in the third inning with one out, then shut out the Cyclones for the next 4 2/3 innings, while Nebraska tallied three more runs in the fifth to gain the win.

NU left fielder Joe Scherger led off the fifth with a single, bringing in ISU reliever Jim Skogsberg. Skogsberg got the first batter out, but after a complaint by Husker coach Tony Sharpe, who questioned Skogsberg's foot placement, the freshman walked the next two batters, bringing NU's Doug Miller to the plate.

Miller, a junior third baseman, then singled through a small hole in the middle of the infield, scoring two runs to put the Huskers ahead 5-4. Scherger then sacrificed to leftfield, scoring another run to ice the game.

"It's a credit to our defense to get two wins with just nine hits," said NU assistant coach John Sanders. "The infield provided the turning points for us in each game with the tough plays," added Nolting.

"Henne (NU catcher Jon) made two perfect throws to pick off guys trying to steal third base, with two outs," said Miller. "That's just a sample of all our work paying off."

McManaman, 5-0, will start against ISU's Curt Kaufmann (2-5) in Saturday's opener at noon at the NU diamond, while the Husker starter for the second game is undetermined.

It's Wohlhuter, it's Boit, it's Randy Wilson?

By Virgil Parker
Sports Editor

Des Moines, Ia. — A specially arranged 800-meter run was the highlight of the 68th annual Drake Relays here Friday afternoon.

Meet organizers lured American record holder Rick Wohlhuter and Kenyan Olympian Mike Boit, the ex-Eastern New Mexico U. flash, to square off in the invitational race.

Boit was the favorite at the distance in the Montreal Games before the African nations pulled out and Boit didn't run.

For the Drake showdown, three other runners were added to give the race an authentic appearance.

The p.a. announcer was as stunned as the sun-bathed crowd of 15,500 by the outcome.

"Here they come," the man on the mike enthused as the runners came around the final turn. "It's Boit and Wohlhuter." Down the stretch he said it again. "It's Boit and Wohlhuter."

But, as they neared the tape, the announcer started to stammer. "It's . . . It's," and then he paused before finishing with an incredulous question mark in his voice. "It's Randy Wilson?"

The Oklahoma junior, who prepped in nearby Knoxville, Iowa, caught Wohlhuter about ten yards before the finish line and lunged past Boit at the wire.

Wilson was clocked in a Drake Relay record time of 1:46.06. All three finished within one-tenth of a second of each other — Boit in 1:46.13 and Wohlhuter in 1:46.16.

"Maybe they were worrying about each other so much they weren't looking for me on the outside," Wilson said later. "Actually, I thought I had started my kick too late. I didn't think I could catch them. That was my personal best by three seconds. I wanted to run real well since I was only 35 miles from my home town."

Wilson normally runs on Oklahoma's two-mile relay team. "But, I just couldn't turn down the invitation to run against the best," he noted. "I told my teammates they could win the two-mile without me."

The Sooners did. "The guys came over and said they had upheld their end of the bargain," Wilson added, "and they told me it was now my turn. This has to be my biggest thrill ever."

Oklahoma's victory in the two-mile relay pulled Nebraska's quartet of Matt Rekmeyer, Keith Whitaker, Ron Fisher and Scott Poehling to the second-fastest clocking in school history, but the Huskers had to settle for fourth place.

A week ago, at the Kansas Relays, Nebraska finished third in 7:24.74. This time they improved to 7:23.76, yet finished behind the Sooners, Bowling Green and Illinois.

Another disappointed Husker was javelin ace Scott Sorchik, who finished as the runnerup to Southern Illinois' Bob Roggy, who set a new Drake record of 259-2.

Sorchik was clearly beyond that distance on his final toss, but lost his balance and barely skidded over the foul line. His effort, in the 265-270 range didn't count and he had to settle for his next-best heave, a 245-5 toss.

Sorchik, who has thrown over 260-feet this spring, however, In three years of competition he won the Kansas Relay title twice and finished second once; and won the Drake crown once and finished second the other two times.

Other major highlights of Friday's opening day action and Nebraska notes of interest include:

— Nebraska's mile relay team of Tom Doval, Ron Hoagland, Pat McKenzie and Ray Mahone qualified for Saturday's finals, finishing second in the third heat. Husker discus thrower Steve Millard and long jumper Rex Davies failed to qualify for the finals in their specialties.

— Nebraska Wesleyan failed to qualify its 440- or 880-yard relay teams to the finals, as did Doane in the 440 and sprint medley relays. Hastings suffered the same fate in the 880 and sprint medley events.

Carlson misses goal, but wins

By Randy York
Prep Sports Editor

Beatrice — Rod Carlson wanted something better Friday than a 60-5 shot put, but he prefers to keep that information to himself.

"I didn't get what I expected today, but I'd rather not say what that was," the Beatrice senior said after his record effort in the Apollo Conference championships.

Carlson, already Nebraska's all-time leader in the event with a 60-10½, outbattled Columbus' Dave Porter (58-9) and Millard's Greg Peitzmeier (57-11).

Porter, who threw 60-6 in the same dual that Carlson threw his all-time best, failed to offer the type of competition both wanted.

"I've been sick all week with a cold and stomach problems," Porter said. "I've been taking antibiotics and coach (Ron) Callan told me not to throw today. But I felt all right and I don't like to miss meets."

Carlson, unaware of Porter's sickness, believes his marks will improve during the three-week stretch windup.

"I've got to start throwing for distance instead of to beat people," he said. "I've had too much constant wariness, watching and worrying about the guys I'm going against. I think that'll change during district and state."

Carlson reached 60-3 on his first throw Friday, scratched on his second, then unleashed the 60-5. His throws in the finals were 58-9, 59-2 and 58-2.

"As far as technique goes, I shouldn't have thrown 60 feet today," he admitted. "It was just adrenalin that pushed it out there today. I wasn't quick. I was sluggish. I've been tired all day."

Veteran Beatrice track coach Willis Jones remained impressed with Carlson's consistency.

Jones, hosting Beatrice's first major track meet in 12 years on its two-year-old all-weather surface, believes one adjustment will add two feet to Carlson's throws.

"He's still having trouble getting his back leg under him at the point of release," Jones explained. "When he gets that, he should be in the neighborhood of 62 feet."

Hruby, Schoonover lead Links

By Chuck Sinclair
Prep Sports Writer

Robin Hruby and Teresa Schoonover both shattered two records Friday at East's Stuart Stadium in leading Lincoln High to the last of the Eastern 1-80 Conference track titles.

It was quite a turnaround from last Tuesday when Hruby and Schoonover got just two wins between them as the powerful Links dropped a dual to Beatrice.

Hruby won the shot put Tuesday, but lost her specialty, the discus, to teammate Julie McEwen. Schoonover, however, won her specialty, the mile, but lost the 880 to Beatrice's state leader Carol Goracke.

Both atoned for those performances Friday as Schoonover turned in the second best 880 this year with a 2:22.9 and added a 5:22.6 mile, bettered only by her 5:19.3 run last week at the Trans-Nebraska.

Hruby fashioned a 143-11 mark in the discus, second only to her own bests of 151½ and 148-5, and also won the shot with the fourth best mark this year, 42-5¾.

"They both had great days," Lincoln High coach George Ayoub commented. "We couldn't have had a much nicer day for it. I've never seen the wind this still at East before."

The still wind meant Hruby, the Nation's leader in the discus last year, had to do all the work by herself while beating her old record of 128-9.

Southeast's Meg Gildersleeve was the meet's only other double winner as she won both the long jump and the 100-yard dash, but neither in record time.

Gildersleeve's wins were in just two of five events untouched by record breakers as standards fell in all of the other eight events during the final meet. The conference is disbanding after this year.

Of the other member teams, Ralston was the only one to crack Lincoln's dominance of first places as the Rams grabbed two, the 440 with Joan Kerndt posting a :59.9 and the mile relay with the second best time this year, 4:08.6.

In winning the two events, both records, Ralston kept Lincoln from dominating the record books.

Lincoln East and Southeast waged a tight battle with Lincoln High for the title, but East had to settle for second with 86 points and Southeast third at 80.

"I tell the kids every meet is important because of the progress you have to make up to districts," Ayoub says. "That should be a good meet."

The Lincoln schools join Beatrice, Fremont, Norfolk and South Sioux City for districts next Friday at Norfolk.

Ralston wins own tourney

Ralston was the winner of its own baseball tournament, defeating Lincoln Northeast Friday night 8-4. Ralston collected seven hits in the contest compared to four for the Rockets.

En route to a berth in the finals, Northeast edged Lincoln High 1-0 in a close contest Friday afternoon. In the other semifinal game Ralston got by Papillion 3-1.

Favorites cost Fonner

By Mark Gordon
Staff Sports Writer

Grand Island — The Kemling Brothers Inc., and the favorite players were happy but Fonner Park general manager Al Swihart wasn't smiling here Friday after the two divisions of the Fonner Park Juvenile Stakes.

The heavy place and show betting on the two Kemling entries cost the track a record $4,354.40 in minus pools and the loss for the day was $1,268.40 in breakage. Both were Fonner records.

A minus pool occurs when there isn't sufficient money wagered on other horses to pay the minimum $2.20 on each $2 ticket. The track must then pay the difference.

In the seventh race, 79.05 per cent of the total money was bet on Rain Circle and Gypsy Charm, who ran one-two. Of the $58,119 bet on the race, $45,948 was on the entry.

In the win pool, there was a plus $265.75. But the place minus pool was $740.65 and a whopping $3,544.95 in the show pool. Overall, $7,560 was bet to win on the entry, $19,379 to place and $26,864 to show.

Southeast's Ritze eyes mark

By Chuck Sinclair
Prep Sports Writer

When Lincoln Southeast's John Ritze surfaced on the prep track charts second to gold medalist Randy Brooks in the 180 yard low hurdles, many observers probably wondered who this new Lincoln hurdler was.

After all, the past two years the only Lincoln hurdlers you ever heard about were Northeast's Steve Eliker and Southeast's Rich Brandfas.

Ritze must be a talented sophomore just on the scene, right?

As a matter of fact, Ritze has been around through both the Brandfas and Eliker era and now has his sights set on erasing Brandfas' name from the Trans-Nebraska conference low hurdle records.

Senior Ritze takes a :19.65 clocking earned in last weeks' Lincoln Public Schools meet into Saturday's conference test at East's Stuart Stadium.

Brandfas' meet record set in 1975, Ritze's sophomore year, is a shade under that at :19.6.

"When you have a kid like this who has grown up in the shadow of guys like Brandfas, you tend to forget everyone else," Churchill says. "He's been a good kid, and a pretty fair country hurdler."

The first field events begin at 11 a.m. with track prelims following at 11:30 a.m.

The afternoon program is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m., with the last event at 4:20 p.m.

New bowling center to Lincoln

By Bob Moyer
Staff Sports Writer

Construction of a $1.5 million, 32-lane bowling center will begin in Lincoln in two to three weeks according to Bob Kerry, managing partner of a group of investors.

The center, whose target date for completion is mid-November, will become Lincoln's largest bowling center. It will be called Sun Valley Bowling Center.

Kerry said the center will have Brunswick automatic scorers and pinsetters and will include all standard bowling center 'extras' including a pro shop, lounge and nursery.

Kerry said his group will soon apply for a liquor license for the lounge.

The bowling center will be built adjacent to Grandmother's Skillet Restaurant, which Kerrey also owns.

Kerrey said the bowling center site is being purchased from the Copple family.

"We have two studies which show excellent demographics for the bowling center," said Kerrey.

"One is an independent study Brunswick did for Lincoln which is very positive about Lincoln as a bowling town in general and our location in particular, because we will be the only bowling establishment west of 48th street in Lincoln except for Bowl-Mor Lanes." Bowl-Mor is at 9th & M streets.

The same studies cause Kerrey to feel that the new bowling center will not be a glut on the other bowling centers. We feel there are enough new bowlers in Lincoln to substantially fill our leagues."

Kerrey, a Northeast and Nebraska University graduate, describes himself as a once-a-week bowler. However, Kerrey's wife, Bev, is currently the handicap Class B singles leader in the women's state bowling tournament which concludes in Lincoln this Sunday.

Kerrey said a general manager for the bowling center has been hired, but declined to reveal his name.

He also said an eight-court racquetball-handball facility is planned by another investor group in the area.

Kerrey added that investors are projecting a shopping center for the area, by the recreational centers.

G&P cleans up business

By Tom Vint
Outdoor Editor

The Nebraska Game and Parks Commission caught up on odds and ends Friday during its regular monthly meeting And it also made some award presentations

Cecil Avey, 19-year conservation officer veteran from the northwest Nebraska district, was named the Shikar-Safari Club International Wildlife Officer of the Year Avey was honored for his work with youth and his personal public relations programs, including an annual summer trash pickup using his own time and money to keep Whitney Lake open to the public

Rex Ealy of Moorefield was awarded the first Certificate of Accomplishment in Conservation for his habitat work and tree plantings on 2,900 acres of land near McCook It was the first such award and calls attention to outstanding work in the field of habitat improvement

The rest of the day was largely spent with the commissioners working on a full agenda

An okay was given to operate and maintain recreational facilities for a Middle Missouri Natural Resource District watershed lake Summit Lake is to be constructed near Tekamah and would furnish a 200-acre public lake with nearly 400 additional acres of recreational land

The commissioners also approved agreements with the Central Platte and Tri-Basin NRD's to establish habitat incentive programs Some discussion centered around possible changes in NRD guidelines in leasing habitat lands, however

One change involved permitting a $15 per acre payment for wetlands and for woodland habitat in combination with other prime wildlife habitat areas Grassland, pasture or hay meadow land will remain at $7 50 per acre annual payment

The commissioners also approved a new contract with Mid-America Webpress, Inc , of Lincoln for another year of printing NEBRASKAland Magazine Interstate Printing Co of Omaha submitted a lower bid but the commissioners and staff indicated the quality of work offered from Mid-America has helped circulation of the publication jump from 33,000 to 50,000 in the past 18 months and no one on the board was prepared to argue with that success

Progress is continuing on relocation of Niobrara State Park, currently being hindered by rising backwaters of Lewis and Clark Reservoir A Niobrara spokesman indicated it may be several more months before land purchases and easements are finalized

The commissioners decided to pull the stop logs and drain Blue Bluffs Lake near Milford The small special use area concerned the commission due to rapid deterirorationation of the dam on the location

The commissioners also voted to try again to reconcile differences with South Dakota on hunting and fishing privileges along the Missouri River in regions where the river separates the two states South Dakotans want to fish the Gavins Point waters with a South Dakota permit while Nebraskans want the opportunity to purchase waterfowl hunting rights in South Dakota

Man remains critically ill after shooting

A 20-year-old Lincoln man, Dan Sperry, remained in critical condition at St Elizabeth s Community Health Center Friday night with a gunshot wound to the abdomen

Police said the wound, suffered shortly before noon Thursday, was apparently self-inflicted Sperry was found at his 6326 Gladstone home after the shooting

Seven arrested at gambling site

Police Friday evening arrested seven Lincoln men near 22nd and T Sts on gambling-related charges

Officers broke up a game on the sidewalk and confiscated money and gambling paraphernalia after receiving a complaint, police said

One man was arrested on suspicion of gambling, and the other six on being in an area where gambling is taking place, police said All seven were booked and released

Union ordered to show cause

Omaha (AP) — A federal judge has ordered union officials to show cause why an injunction should not be issued to restrain alleged violence or threats of violence at the Iowa Beef Processors, Inc plant at Dakota City, Neb

U S District Court Judge Robert Denney ordered representatives of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, Local 222, to appear May 19

Denney issued the order Friday after the National Labor Relations Board requested an injunction

The 1,800-member local has been on strike at the plant for about two months.

A petition by the NLRB said it has cause to believe that charges filed separately by IBP and Farm Products Co. involving violence, coercion and threats by the union are true.

The NLRB petition cites 65 individual members of the union who allegedly engaged in the illegal activities, including local president Richard Kelly, business agent Lewie Anderson and international representative Tony Fedders

Bread man startles burglar

A bread delivery man making his early Friday morning rounds interrupted a burglar at the Safeway grocery store at 1535 N 27th St

The burglar, believed to be an 18-year-old male, fled empty-handed, police said

The burglar entered the store by throwing a brick through the front door, and tried to break open the safe, police said

He also had loaded a shopping cart with groceries before the bread man scared him off, police said

Sexual assault verdict guilty

A 50-year-old Lincoln man was found guilty of second degree sexual assault Friday in Lancaster County District Court

Frank E Rheinschild of 8111 Talbot plead no contest to the charge and was ruled guilty The charge was amended from first degree sexual assault by the county attorney s office, and stems from an Aug 20, 1976 incident
